MILLERS' WHEAT-FEED steady. Broad digestive bran, 9/1½; ordinary, 4/9; weatings, 5/9 to 5/10½; ground oats, 8/6, ex-mill, per cwt.

LIVERPOOL.—The firmness in overseas markets was reflected here, and, with forecast of small shipments for the past week from the Argentine, forward deliveries of wheat improved considerably during early trading. Then prices receded on less activity in actual wheat, while easier afternoon cables caused pressure to sell, and a sharp decline resulted, final rates showing a fair depreciation from the previous night; c.i.f. parcels neglected, nominally 2d. to 6d. dearer, but no business resulted; c.i.f. parcels of River Plate maize easier, afloat, June, and July selling at 16/4½ per quarter. WHEAT on the spot quieter and steady. Spot parcels steady at 3/9½ to 5/10 per cental for River Plate. FLOUR quiet at late rates. Graded wheat futures opened 4d. to 4½d. per cental dearer, and 4d. to 4½d. more was afterwards realized, but prices later gave way sharply, final rates being 4d. to 4½d. under the previous night, distant months being most affected. Values—July 5/3, October 5/3½, December 5/3½, March 5/2½ per cental. Sales—260 loads.

Financial News & Notes

DUBLIN QUIET

RAILS IMPROVING

INDUSTRIALS EASIER

Quiet conditions prevailed on the Dublin Stock Exchange yesterday, and British Industrials were generally easier; but local issues held up well, and even inclined higher in places.

Chief interest again centred round Rails, and fresh support put prices still higher. Great Southern Ord. rose a point, and the Guaranteed (City of Dublin Junction) gained 1½ points, while the Deb. improved to 78¼. Great Northern Pref. spurted three points, but the Guaranteed eased a shade.

Home Funds were well maintained, apart from 4 p.c. Land Bonds, which fell 7s. 6d.

War Loan advanced 8s. 9d., and Banks showed no change.

Guinness Ord. hardened to 148s. 3d., and Distillers Ord. moved up to 96s.

B. and I. Steam Pref. added a few pence, and Cable issues were again firmer.

Alliance Gas Ord. rose 2s. 6d., and Carroll Ord., Irish Dunlop Pref. and May Roberts Pref. were all harder.

Coats Ord. declined to 61s. 3d., but Courtaulds were unaltered. Leading Tobaccos were neglected. Dunlop Rubbers, Lever 7 p.c. Preference, Unilever Ord. and Vickers Ord. all shed fractions.

LONDON CHEERFUL

GOLD MINES IN FAVOUR

Trading on the London Stock Markets yesterday was on a wider scale, as more attention was displayed in the Mining groups, particularly Kaffirs and West Africans. The latter were in strong demand in anticipation of an official statement regarding important developments, while Kaffirs, after the recent quiet spell, were also generally better on reports of an improved market position at the Cape. Gilt-edged stocks were also active and again improved, and although conditions in the Industrial Market remained rather subdued, this section provided a fair sprinkling of features, and the tone, as a whole, was cheerful.

Business in the gilt-edged market showed a slight contraction, but with floating supplies short stocks were sensitive to the demand, and while an early rise was not fully maintained, several issues again finished higher. A further marking up of Chinese issues, as a result of speculative inquiry, was the feature of the Foreign Bond Market. The Japanese, though rather quiet, remained firm, and French Fours also made further headway.

Conditions in the British Rail section showed little improvement, but the tone was firmer following the publication of the traffic figures. Foreign Rails again lacked support, and movements were adverse with a fall of 2 to 53 in San Paulo Ord. prominent. Colonial and American Rails, following Tuesday's set-back, were more active, and several good recoveries occurred.

The turnover in the Industrial Market was limited, and recent favourites were, in many instances, again lower, as there was an inclination to take profits on any marked improvement. Cable and Wireless stocks provided a good feature, however, and on expectations of a good index, further marking up took place. Commercial Vehicle issues were another bright spot, with Leylands outstanding, while other Motor issues were fairly active, and several Tobacco shares made small recoveries.

Among Mines there was considerable liveliness, and business showed a marked improvement. There was a big turnover in West Africans, and prices improved all round.

Little of interest transpired in the Oil Share Market, and, in the absence of buying, the tendency was inclined to dulness, and several fresh losses occurred.

THE MONEY MARKET

GOLD LOWER

The price of gold yesterday fell 2½d. to 140s. 11½d. per fine ounce. At this price, which includes a premium of 1d. over the dollar at 4.93⅜, and of 2½d. over the franc at 74⅛. About 117 bars, approximately valued at £330,000, were disposed of.

Silver prices were weak, falling ½d. to 32⅛d. for spot and to 32⅛d. for forward delivery. Discount rates continued firm but were unchanged, hot Treasury bills being quoted at ¾ and three months' fine bills at ½. Money was in fair demand at ½ per cent.

Renewed weakness of the French franc in terms of all the principal currencies was the outstanding feature of the foreign exchange market yesterday. Fresh selling of the franc developed on European account, the return of confidence in the currency which had taken place in the earlier part of the week thus proving of short duration. Simultaneously the franc was on offer for forward delivery, and discounts quoted increased sharply. Most of the other gold bloc currencies were able to show some improvement in relation to the franc, but usually closed a shade weaker in terms of the £. Forward discounts for the group also showed a tendency to increase. Dealers reported a larger turnover in both spot and forward market than on the first days of the week, though there was little sign of speculative activity on a material scale.

IRISHMAN'S DIARY

A Distinguished Visitor : Harcourt Street Station : Wesley in Dublin : Strawberry Jam : A New Play

A Distinguished Visitor

A distinguished visitor to Dublin just now is Senator the Hon. T. L. Murray, of the New South Wales Legislative Council, who is accompanied on his special short holiday visit to Ireland by his wife and two pretty daughters, Peggy and Pat. Senator Murray is a great personal friend of the famous 84 years old Waterford-born Archbishop of Sydney, Dr. Michael Kelly, who spent almost a quarter of a century as a Missionary Father of the Missionaries of the Most Holy Sacrament at Enniscorthy, County Wexford. Senator Murray tells me that His Grace has made a remarkable recovery from his severe illness about six months ago. "The number of our Irish people occupying high legal, commercial and political posts in Australia is amazing," said Senator Murray, who is paying a special visit to County Wicklow, whence his mother's people emigrated many years back.

A Sparrow's Feast

A correspondent writes: My city garden is the haunt of sparrows. Every day I scatter crumbs for them, and they descend in flocks to clear up the feast. Recently they found something even more to their liking. I was remodelling an old cushion, transferring the feathers to a new case. The job was done in the garden, and a few feathers were left behind on the grass. With the flair of housewives for a bargain, the single-minded ferocity said by the comic papers to animate women at a spring sale, and the self-satisfied triumph of the successful bargain-snatcher, the sparrows discovered those feathers, fought for them, and bore them away to their nests in the eaves. Then back they came for more, which they got; for the sight of a continuous bee-line of birds, each with a white feather in its bill, was well worth another handful. I hope the unaccustomed luxury will not make the young ones too soft for the battle of life.

John Wesley in Dublin

"... Must this too pass away like a dream?" So asked John Wesley when visiting Lady Moira, at Ussher's Island. He was referring to the elegant ornamentation and furnishings in Moira House, with its window, rising full sixteen feet high, inlaid throughout with mother-o'-pearl. Truely a princely mansion! Within fifty years of that visit by the great evangelist all its worldly glamour had passed away, and its walls housed a charitable institution—the Mendicity—which would have been dear to the heart of the founder of Methodism. Gone also is the infamous Newgate Prison, the scene of Wesley's most bitter disappointment. But St. Mary's Church remains now to receive from his following a tablet commemorative of his first sermon in Dublin.

Methodism was introduced into Dublin by a Mr. Williams, who came as a missioner from the English connection; and shortly after the speedy foundation of a small community of adherents the Rev. John Wesley arrived here on Sunday, the 9th of August, 1747, "when the bells of the parish churches were summoning their congregations to Morning Prayer." Wesley immediately proceeded to church, and at three o'clock on the same day he preached his first sermon at St. Mary's.

The new connection at that time numbered about two hundred active members, who congregated regularly in the old Lutheran Chapel in Marlborough street. There the evangelist attracted crowded congregations. Not all came in the true spirit "to behold and harken to the servant of the Lord"; the avowed unbelievers always were well represented, but the guarded hostility, which after his departure broke out as a storm of active persecution of his followers, served only to inspire greater zeal in the preacher.

Wesley at Newgate

The most dreadful place in Dublin was Newgate Prison; and its revolting conditions in mid-eighteenth century—described by Gilbert in his History of the City of Dublin—had not been improved since its establishment in the thirteenth century. Here were herded the lowest, degraded, and most abandoned of malefactors, often utterly naked, and all diseased with the loathsome jail-fever—or worse. Into that sink of filth and iniquity went John Wesley, seeking to instil some hope of spiritual salvation; but, alas, he had to admit to the inefficacy of his prayer and supplication. "I found," he said, "no stirring among the dry bones." But, undeterred by first failure, he undertook a more unwholesome task when, the jailer refusing him the use of the room "where we used to preach" (this seems to imply other unrecorded visits), he preached in the "felon's den." There, again, was no appreciable response. So, disheartened and disillusioned, he was forced to express his opinion that "Our Lord refuses his blessing to this place: all the seed seems to fall by the wayside. I see no fruit of our labours." Yet, it may have been that Wesley's strictures on the general condition of Newgate caused the prison authorities to improve the accommodation and regulate the conduct of the institution, the use of which was abandoned before the close of the century.

Strawberry Jam

A paragraph which appeared in this column some days ago seems to have given rise to a certain amount of misapprehension. In the course of my remarks on strawberries I mentioned that I understood that jam manufacturers were allowed to import strawberry pulp free of duty, and that this pulp was the basis of the people's jam. I hasten to explain that I never meant to suggest that all factory-manufactured jam was made of fruit pulp, knowing quite well that some of the best jam in the world is made in this country, and that it is manufactured from the finest fresh fruit. So nobody who read my paragraph need imagine that he is getting anything but the choicest jam, if he is willing to pay for it. Mr. Lamb, of the well-known firm of jam-makers, tells me, by the way, that he has a 300-acre fruit farm near Dublin, one-third of which already has been planted. In view of increasing demand, he has decided to plant a further 100 acres. Strawberries are exceptionally scarce; and, as there is an import duty of threepence a pound on the imported fruit, there seems to be a good chance for native growers to capture the market.

Spring Cleaning a Station

Dubliners are, not unjustly, indeed, proud of their public buildings. The inevitable grime of a big city often, however, prevents the fine lines of many of our buildings from receiving full appreciation. This has been borne in upon me (writes a correspondent) by the thorough spring-cleaning which the Great Southern Railways Company have caused to be undertaken on the façade of Harcourt Street Railway Station. What has always since my childhood days, with their memories of journeys to the seaside, seemed a well-smoked and sooty pile is undergoing a transformation. It promises to reveal itself in all the splendid whiteness of newly-quarried granite which it must have shown when it was first erected in 1859.

Architecturally Harcourt Street Station has much to recommend it, but the smoke and drabness which seem inseparable from most railway stations have hitherto almost completely spoiled its appearance. The enamel advertisement signs and the nearby advertisement hoardings did not add to the general effect. One of the latter was recently in great part removed with considerable improvement to one end of what is still one of the city's finer streets. And now the railway company are to be heartily congratulated upon this latest and very welcome renovation. Dublin needs only a little brightening up of this sort to show that it is by no means in decay.

A New Play

I was interested to hear that a new play, written by Mr. John K. Montgomery, has been accepted by the B.B.C. authorities in Belfast, and will shortly be broadcast. The play, which is entitled "The Name o' McKane," is in two acts, and deals with the Ulster peasantry and their reaction to various interesting situations. Mr. Montgomery, who is a brother of Miss Jean Montgomery, Lady Superintendent of the Dining Hall, Trinity College, had a play accepted by the Abbey Theatre last year. This was a one-act play, "The Jezebel," which had won the premier award at the Ulster Feis in the Drama Section. The play when produced at the Abbey had a good reception, though the actors, not unnaturally, had a certain difficulty in portraying the Ulster dialect. The play to be broadcast by the B.B.C. will be performed by the Ulster Players.

METHODIST CHURCH CONFERENCE

CANDIDATES FOR ORDINATION

The annual Conference of the Methodist Church in Ireland in its Ministerial Session resumed its sittings yesterday morning at 10.30 o'clock, the opening having been put back in order to enable the members of the Conference to attend the funeral of the Rev. J. W. R. Campbell, M.A. After devotional exercises the Rev. John N. Spence (Belfast), Senior Assistant Secretary, read the record the previous day's proceedings, which was accepted.

The resignation of the Rev. Henry G. Martin, who had been a minister of the Church for 32 years, was accepted with regret. Mr. Martin served for eight years as a missionary in West Africa, and was for three years chaplain to the Forces during the Great War.

The Rev. R. Lee Cole, M.A., B.D., read the pastoral address for the coming year. It is on the devotional use of the Methodist hymn book. Cordial appreciation of the address was expressed by a number of members, and the Conference heartily accepted it.

The Pastoral Efficiency Session followed the reading of the pastoral address. The subject was "The Modern Craving for Fellowship and how to meet it." This was introduced by the Rev. John Bertenshaw, of Dublin. Among the speakers who followed were the Rev. R. C. P. Crawford, Dundalk, and the Rev. W. J. Oliver, Belfast. The discussion was closed by a very helpful address from the Rev. Richard Pyke, of Plymouth, and by devotional exercises, conducted by the President.

NEW MINISTERS

When the Conference resumed in its afternoon session the President reported that he had interviewed the candidates for ordination, and they had all satisfied him and the ministers who accompanied him as to their religious experience and their fitness for the work of the ministry. In the presence of the Conference the young ministers answered the usual questions with regard to their belief in the doctrines of Methodism, and pledged themselves to serve willingly wherever the Conference appointed them.

On the motion of the Secretary of the Conference, seconded by the Vice-President, the seven young brethren were then, by a standing vote, received into full connexion, and will be ordained at the Ordination Service on Monday evening. They are:—Messrs. S. H. Baxter (Inchicore), Samuel J. Crawford (Culdaff), J. Lynham Cairns (Mountmellick), J. Wesley Doonan (Portstewart), F. J. Kellett, B.A. (Duncannon); F. B. Rea, B.A. (Dublin); George Watson (Castlederg).

The Conference took up the reading of the stations. It agreed to an exchange between Bantry and Newtownstewart, the Rev. B. C. Moran being put down for Bantry and the Rev. F. Asbury Hanna for Newtownstewart, and referred a number of difficult cases back to the Stationing Committee for reconsideration.

THE REPRESENTATIVE SESSION

The Methodist Conference in its Representative Session, met in the Centenary Church, St. Stephen's Green, Dublin, last night, under the presidency of the Rev. William Younger, President of the British Methodist Conference, who, with the delegates from the British Conference, was welcomed by the Secretary, the Rev. C. Henry Crookshank.

The President, acknowledging the welcome, said that he and the delegates had come with a great admiration both for the history and present loyalty and the achievement of the Methodist Church in Ireland, and there were no warmer admirers of the work of the Methodist Church in Ireland than the delegates from the British Conference.

THE GREATEST NEED

One of the greatest needs of this generation, he continued, was the re-discovery of the fundamental implications of the gospel of freedom. Freedom was at once one of the most priceless and one of the most dangerous perquisites of personality. It was a glorious thing to be completely free, but it was equally important to know how to use the freedom that had been gained. If it was not linked up with the higher things it would end in moral ruin. There was ultimately no such thing as uncontrolled freedom; they were bound to be controlled by either one or the other.

One of the accompaniments of the system of education in the modern world had been the emergence of class consciousness and the development of personality, and the world had to be lifted from that class consciousness if man was to reach a higher order of civilisation. The institution that would save man from the bitterness and humiliation resulting from class consciousness was a Church that bound all together in a great spirit of human fellowship.

Mr. G. P. Dymond, vice-president of the British Conference; the Rev. James R. Irving (Liverpool) and the Rev. Richard Pyke (Plymouth) also addressed the conference.

A CENTENARY RECORD

The "Castleknock College Centenary Record," just published, is a large volume which will be of interest not merely to the past students of the College, but to all who are concerned in Catholic education. The Record opens with a detailed account of the historic spot known as Cnucha in early Irish history and later as Castleknock; it traces its importance in pre-Christian and Norman times down to the seventeenth century. The foundation of the College in 1835 as a seminary for the Diocese of Dublin is described fully. The various activities of college life during the hundred years of its existence are given special prominence, while the work done by the College for Church and State, for business life and the professions, is treated in detail. Names well known in Ireland and elsewhere are found recorded among the lists of past students. The Record is beautifully produced and forms a fitting tribute to the great college from which it comes.

EX-SERVICE VISIT TO GERMANY

SIR S. HOARE'S REPLY TO QUESTIONS

In the House of Commons yesterday Mr. Aneurin Bevan (Labour) asked the Foreign Secretary whether his attention had been called to the proposal to send a delegation of ex-Service men to Germany, whether the proposal met with the approval of His Majesty's Government, and whether it was made with the knowledge and consent of the Government.

Sir Samuel Hoare—The answer to the first part of the question is in the affirmative. With regard to the second and the third parts, His Majesty's Government were, and are, aware that it is the policy of the British Legion to establish friendly relations with the corresponding organisations in all countries, and they regard the matter as entirely one for the ex-Service men's organisations.

Mr. A. Bevan—Is he aware that exception is not taken to the sending of the deputation, but rather to the manner, place and authority which gives the proposal diplomatic significance that it ought not to possess, and will he take steps to see that the delegation visiting Germany visits the ex-Service men there in prison and concentration camps?

Sir Samuel Hoare—This is essentially a matter for the ex-Service men's organisations. It is not a matter in which the Foreign Office, as such, should interfere at all.

Mr. A. Bevan—Does he approve that a proposal of this sort should be made by a person occupying the position of the Prince of Wales?

Sir Samuel Hoare—I am neither approving nor disapproving. It is not a matter within the competence of the Foreign Office.

Mr. Morgan Jones (Labour)—Has it no diplomatic significance?

Sir Samuel Hoare did not reply.

IRISH WEDDINGS

MR. TERENCE POULTER AND MRS. BANNERMAN

Mr. Terence Bernard Poulter, son of the late Mr. Henry C. Poulter, of St. Brigid's Roebuck, Dutlin, and Mrs. Poulter, of 78 Ranelagh, and Mrs. Theresa Florence Bannerman, of 56 Morehampton road, Dublin, only daughter of the late Captain J. Wynne Smith, and Mrs. Wynne Smith, of Raheengrany, Clonegal, County Wicklow, were married yesterday at Chelsea registry office.

The bride was escorted by Mr. J. R. Mason, and she wore a dress of deep blue crepe, patterned in a white marguerite design; a coatee waisted and fashioned with a short basque, and her hat was of blue straw.

Mr. Cecil Sanguinetti accompanied the bridegroom, and Miss Mavis Sanguinetti, wearing two shades of blue, pale and dark, with a hat to tone, attended the bride.

A luncheon party was held at the Berkeley Hotel, Piccadilly, before the bride and bridegroom left London for their honeymoon in the Channel Islands.

A pre-wedding breakfast was held on Tuesday at Granville House, Granville place, which was lent by Mrs. Sanguinetti.

MR. E. G. BIGGER AND MISS H. F. CROOK

The wedding took place in the Newry Methodist Church yesterday of Mr. Edgar Grimshaw Bigger, of Riverview, Londonderry, and Miss Hilda Florence Crook, younger daughter of Mr. and Mrs. George F. Crook, "The Willows," Newry. The bride is a well-known singer and the bridegroom a leading Derry oarsman.

The Rev. J. R. W. Roddie, of Carlisle Memorial Church, Belfast, officiated.

The bride wore an ivory brocaded double court satin frock and train, trimmed with silver lamé, and a veil of French silk net with a halo of orange blossom and pleated silver net. She carried a Victorian posy of white carnations and maidenhair fern, tied with silver ribbon.

She was attended by her cousins, Miss Helen Mitchell and Miss Eileen Wallace. Miss Mitchell wore a blue taffeta silk frock, with satin spot magyar top, rucked waist and short train, and Miss Wallace wore a similar frock in pink taffeta. Both wore wreaths of flowers and carried bouquets of sweet pea and forget-me-nots.

Mr. and Mrs. Crook gave a reception in the Great Northern Hotel during the afternoon.

The honeymoon will be spent on the Continent.

RAREST UNITED STATES STAMP

SOLD FOR £525

At an auction at H. R. Harmer's (New Bond street, London) yesterday the rarest United States stamp was put up, and after keen competition was sold at £525. The stamp (illustrated here) is the 12c. black portrait of Washington, issued in August, 1861. It is described in the catalogue as:—

"Première gravure, perfectly centred, intense colour and superb appearance. A magnificent unused example with only about a quarter of the gum partly missing at top, due to removal of old hinges. Despite the trifling defect of a scarcely perceptible tiny thinned spot at back of "P" of "Postage," the stamp is almost certainly the finest of the few known copies. The highest priced U.S.A. stamp, Scott. 7,000 dollars, S.G. £1,700. Yvert frs. 150,000."

A plea of "partial insanity" was sustained in Glasgow High Court yesterday. Christopher Kelly (17), indicted for the murder of his sixteen year old wife in a house in College street, Glasgow, was found guilty on a reduced charge of manslaughter, and sentenced to seven years' penal servitude.

A DISPLAY OF TROPHIES

A display of cups which will be shot for at the International Clay Pigeon Shooting contests, commencing at Ashtown, Co. Dublin, to-day, and continuing to-morrow and Saturday. Some of the world's best shots will compete in these contests, held in Ireland only every four years, for prizes to the value of over £1,000.

PROFICIENCY IN GAS COOKING

CERTIFICATES ISSUED TO SCHOOLGIRLS

The annual distribution of certificates among pupils of colleges and schools in Dublin for proficiency in gas cooking took place yesterday afternoon at the offices of the Alliance and Dublin Consumers' Gas Co., D'Olier street, Dublin.

Mr. Joseph F. X. Murphy, a director of the company, distributed the certificates, Mr. H. F. Cotton (distribution engineer) and Mr. T. J. Jackson (chief salesman) being also present.

Mr. Murphy, after welcoming the teachers and their pupils, said that the competition was becoming increasingly popular, as shown by the fact that the company was requested to hold it in forty-two schools, secondary, national and technical, for the current year, as against thirty-eight last year; while prizes had been won by 448 pupils, as against 446 in 1934. As a matter of fact, the entrants would have been very much larger but for the tramway strike, which, unfortunately, coincided with the examination period. The temporary closing of some of the schools was a further contributory adverse influence.

BENEFIT TO PUPILS

The company was greatly encouraged to continue the competition from year to year by the interest and enthusiasm displayed by the pupils and the much appreciated and hearty co-operation of the school teachers.

The oral examination results showed a great improvement on those of former years, but, unfortunately, the individual pupil's knowledge of the practical management of a gas cooker was greatly hampered by the insufficient number of cookers in the schools.

As cooking by gas was now universal, all were gainers who entered for the competition, as, even if they did not secure prizes, they gained an experience in gas cooking bound to be of value in the management of their own homes.

A LARGE EMPLOYER

In these days, when they were rightly endeavouring to foster Irish industries of every kind, the user of a gas cooker had the additional satisfaction of knowing that she was helping a great Irish industry: the company was among the largest employers of labour in the Free State.

They would, accordingly, hope for a still further increase in the success and popularity of their cooking competition in future years; and they would look forward to meeting again on many future occasions for a similar purpose to that which had brought them together that day.

The function took place in the handsome new theatre which the company have constructed at its headquarters.

IRISH GAMESMASTER

APPOINTMENT TO CADET SHIP

The Rev. T. W. E. Wagner, M.A., has been appointed as chaplain, gamesmaster, and part-time teacher on board H.M. cadet ship Conway, which is anchored off Rock Ferry, in the River Mersey, and which is utilised for the training of officers for the British Mercantile Marine. Mr. Wagner is a graduate of Trinity College, and was educated at the Public School at Portora. He is a very keen and experienced Rugby player, and played for his school and also for the Wanderers. He was capped during five successive seasons for the County Sligo Rugby team, and it is hoped by the chairman and committee of the cadet ship that Mr. Wagner's appointment to the ship will improve the quality of the Rugby football played by the boys in their matches.

Mr. Wagner is 43 years of age, and his father was successively Archdeacon and Dean of Elphin, Roscommon, while Mr. Wagner was Rector of Sligo from 1916 to 1925. He is the author of several books, and is also a qualified dental practitioner.

STUDENTS' MUSICAL UNION

The last guest night of the season was held by the Students' Musical Union of the Royal Irish Academy of Music in the Gresham Hotel, Dublin, last night. There was a large attendance and the programme was delightfully chosen.

Miss Rita McNamee and Mr. Fred May played piano solos, and Bach's Sonata in E flat for two pianos was well played by Miss Eileen Buckley and Miss Jean Russell. Miss Madge Bradbury sang a group of songs, including Schubert's "The Linden Tree" and Schumann's "The Nut Tree," both delightfully done. Mr. Joseph O'Reilly contributed a group of songs, and Miss Una Kenny and Miss Una Lord played violin and 'cello solos, respectively. A piano quartet, by Rheinberger, was played by Joan Trimble (piano), Posy Shreider (violin), Eileen Woods (viola), and Myrrha Jephson ('cello). The Spinning Quartet, from "Martha," sung by Miss Lucy Hamilton, Mr. Patrick Kirwan, Miss Dorothy Griffith and Mr. Tadhg Forbes, completed the programme.

RETIREMENT OF DR. O'DONOGHUE

The retirement on superannuation from the position of Medical Officer of the Department of Local Government and Public Health (National Health Insurance) of Dr. John O'Donoghue, F.R.C.S.I., was made the occasion of a presentation by the staff at a meeting in the Custom House, Dublin.

The presentation was made by the Controller, Mr. John A. McCarron, LL.B., who paid a warm tribute to the excellent services rendered by Dr. O'Donoghue in his position of Medical Officer since the inception of the National Health Insurance Acts, and expressed the regret of the entire staff at the official severance.

Further tributes to the recipient were paid by Messrs. J. A. Duffy, V. J. Fielding, D. Finn, T. Sugrue, W. Dunne, P. J. Meagher, E. L. Roche and P. Dempsey.

Dr. O'Donoghue, in the course of a characteristic speech, referred to his very happy associations during his long service not only with the members of the Departmental staff, but also with the several public bodies and individuals he had come into personal and other contact with.

NEW INCUMBENT OF SHILLELAGH

The Rev. W. Maitland, B.A., M.Sc., Deputation Secretary to the South American Missionary Society for the past 5½ years, has been appointed Incumbent of Shillelagh, in the Diocese of Ferns. The institution will take place on 4th July.

ROOMKEEPERS' SOCIETY

The annual general meeting of the Sick and Indigent Roomkeepers' Society will be held in the Boardroom, 2 Palace street, Dublin, to-day at 12 o'clock noon, under the presidency of the Lord Mayor of Dublin. The Society is the oldest of its kind in the city, having been founded 145 years ago. Since then it has accomplished wonderful work, providing assistance for sick and needy roomkeepers, and has earned the praise of all classes of the community.

During the past year the expenditure in relief of deserving cases amounted to £3,118, the number of families assisted being 5,010, consisting of 21,229 persons.

FRUIT SALT FACTORY

The manufacturers of Eno's fruit salt and other products, Messrs. J. C. Eno, Ltd., have acquired Winstanley Hall, Cornmarket, Dublin, and will soon open a factory and packing office there. A company, to be known as J. C. Eno (S.E.), Ltd., has been registered, with nominal capital of £6,000.

Manufacturing will begin about September on two lines and, if the project is successful, these will be extended and other lines introduced. Employment with the firm will vary with different seasons, but will probably attain an average of twenty hands. Mr. P. H. Harwood, one of the directors, is making the arrangements in connection with fitting out the new premises.

ASSEMBLING OF MOTOR CARS

WORK IN THE FREE STATE

In the Dail yesterday the MINISTER FOR INDUSTRY AND COMMERCE, in reply to Mr. James M. Dillon, said that cotton thread was not yet manufactured in the Irish Free State. The issue of licences for the importation, free of duty, of cotton thread for resale was suspended while he was considering whether the issue of such licences for the future could be justified.

The MINISTER FOR INDUSTRY AND COMMERCE informed Mr. Eamon O'Neill that the complete assembly of the following makes of British cars had, up to the present, been undertaken in the Saorstat:—Ford, 8 h.p., and 10 h.p.; Hillman, Humber, Armstrong-Siddeley and Crossley. In addition, the Vauxhall car was partly assembled and the Standard was finished.

The American makes of cars which, up to the present, had been completely assembled were:—Ford V-8, Dodge, Chrysler, Terraplane, Hudson, Hupmobile and Studebaker. The assembly factories were located in Dublin and Cork.

Information was not available as to the number of cars put on the market by each assembling centre. He understood that Saorstat firms were contemplating the five additional British makes and three American makes of car. It was not possible at this stage to say where the additional assembly factories would be situated.

The MINISTER FOR FINANCE informed Mr. Eamon O'Neill that it was not the intention to abolish the system of competitive examination in the making of promotions from the clerical grades to the Executive grade in the Civil Service.

MESSRS. HOLDEN'S AUCTION

At their salerooms in Dublin yesterday Messrs. Holden successfully disposed of the seven lots of property forming the estate of the late Mrs. Margaret Gaffney. The auction was well attended, and the lots were disposed of at satisfactory prices.

APPLICATIONS FOR A LOCAL APPOINTMENT

MOVE TO EXCLUDE PENSION-HOLDERS

Should men with pensions be appointed to vacant posts when others, without means, are seeking work? Dublin Board of Assistance divided equally on this point yesterday when considering the appointment of a temporary relieving officer.

Alderman P. J. Medlar said that the applications included one from a man with a pension of £3 10s. a week. He thought that it would be unfair to appoint a man who had a pension when the unemployment problem was so serious.

A resolution to postpone the appointment until details of the pensions of the applicants were before the Board was submitted, and, on a vote, five members voted for the motion and five against. The chairman (Mr. P. S. Doyle, T.D.) decided that the motion was lost.

After some further discussion, the Board decided to ask the supervising relieving officer to make a report on men in the service who were suitable for promotion. The appointment will be made on July 3rd next.

DUBLIN BOARD OF ASSISTANCE

Home assistance in Dublin declined slightly again last week, and 6,546 cases were relieved at a cost of £3,001 13s. 6d. This was 41 cases (£14 3s. 6d.) less than in the previous week, according to the report made to the Dublin Board of Assistance yesterday. Vouchers for 16,891lbs. of beef were issued last week.

The question of the proper investigation of claims for unemployment assistance was again before the Board, which recently drew the attention of the Department of Industry and Commerce to the matter.

The Department replied yesterday that each case was examined on its merits, and in any case where the unemployment assistance officer refused assistance the statutory case on which the application was refused was explained to the applicant, who had the right of appeal to a court of referees.

It was added that the Minister was satisfied that applicants were afforded every facility and encouragement to exercise their rights under the Act.

Mr. P. S. Doyle, T.D. (chairman) said that the Board was not satisfied that the cases were being investigated properly.

The matter was referred to the supervising relieving officer for a report.

During a discussion on the matter, Alderman P. J. Medlar said that as a result of a sworn declaration three persons, previously refused assistance on the ground that they were not seeking employment, had now been paid assistance. He believed that the Department had no proper investigation officers, and commented that they should have taken over some of the Board's officers.

Mr. Doyle remarked that appeals had been held up for months, and one of the relieving officers said a case had been held up for forty weeks.

ON THE WIRELESS

Daily Programme Review

DUBLIN: Sydney Rosehill (violin), Nellie Nugent (pianoforte). Recitals, 8.45 and 9.15.

NORTHERN IRELAND: Mediterranean Music, 9.

B.B.C. NATIONAL: "The Geisha" (repeat), 8.

REGIONAL: Recital by Harriet Cohen (pianoforte) and Edna Thomas (Negro Spirituals), 8.20.

MIDLAND: Chamber Music of Granville Bantock, 8.20.

BRUSSELS NO. 1: Folk Dances of Many Lands, 8.

ROME: Opera, "Tutti in Maschera" (Pedrotti), 8.50.

POEMS of W. B. Yeats by Denis Carey occur in to-night's Dublin programme at 7.15; not in last night's, as printed in some of the earlier programmes, and mentioned in these notes yesterday.

The talk of first importance will be given by Dr. J. Ryan, Minister for Agriculture, who will speak on the "Dairy Produce and Price Stabilisation Bill" at 8.30. Dr. Tomacelli will talk about "Italian Customs and Manifestations" at 8.15.

Sydney Rosehill has a well-chosen programme for his violin recital to-night; and Nellie Nugent, winner of the gold medal and Reilly Cup for senior pianoforte at the Feis Ceoil will play Bach and Schumann.

We have often voiced the opinion that famous works—take, for instance, Brontë's "Wuthering Heights"—could be broadcast to advantage in serial form. We are now to have a play in serial form; but, far removed from being a classic, it is a thriller. Entitled "The Mystery of the Seven Cafés," the adventure starts to-night by way of a brief prologue, when listeners will be introduced to "Tiger" Standish, or, to give him his full title, the Hon. Timothy Standish, of Q.I., whom they will follow throughout the series. The instalments will occur fortnightly until September. The author, Sydney Horler, ranks high among present-day thrill-spinners. The special music has been arranged by Walford Hyden. (National, 9.15.)

In the B.B.C. series of Midland Chamber Concerts the works of Sir Granville Bantock will be performed to-night. Those taking part are Emily Broughton (soprano), Lena Wood (viola), Elsa Tookey (violoncello), Winifred Cockerill (harp) and Margaret Ablethorpe (pianoforte). An interesting item is that of Bantock's group of five songs from the Chinese.

Musical festivals, more than ever widespread, always create much public interest. Scottish listeners will have an opportunity to-night of hearing the prize-winners of the Glasgow Musical Festival, the Edinburgh Musical Festival and the Verse-speaking Festival by the Glasgow Branch of the Scottish Association for the Speaking of Verse. The festival concert commences at 8.45 in the Scottish programme.

CORK COMMITTEE AND NEW SCHEME

FROM OUR CORRESPONDENT.

CORK, Wednesday.

A special meeting of the Cork County Committee of Agriculture was held to-day, Mr. T. O'Sullivan (Chairman) presiding, to consider the Department's proposed scheme for direct distribution of British import licences to the producers of cattle intended for export.

At the outset the meeting passed a vote of congratulation to Mr. E. J. Cussen on his release from jail, for which he thanked the members.

It was gratifying to note, several members said, that the scheme for distribution of licences, now proposed by the Department, was in accordance with that suggested by the Committee at a meeting some time ago and the basis of which had been submitted to the Department.

A special sub-committee of eight members was appointed to report on the scheme, Mr. E. J. Cussen being among those appointed.

Two men have been shot dead during rioting at a factory at Union, South Carolina, where a strike was declared on Tuesday night.

CORK'S GREAT SUMMER SHOW

ATTEMPT AT BOYCOTT

HIGH LEVEL OF EXHIBITS

FROM OUR AGRICULTURAL CORRESPONDENT.

CORK, Wednesday.

WHAT was likely to prove one of the best summer shows held by the Munster Agricultural Society, which opened at Cork Park to-day, was marred by an ill-timed protest against the collection of land annuities as well as depressing weather conditions.

Fearing a disturbance in the show-grounds and possible injury to their pedigree stock, many of the usual supporters of this important event were not represented, the total entry of horses, cattle, sheep and pigs being 131, as compared with 343 last year.

There were also some notable gaps in the spaces usually allotted to trade and industrial exhibits. Some of the exhibitors in this section received letters containing threats against their business if they did not abstain from making their usual display in the showyard. It was stated that the fixture would be boycotted by farmers as a protest against the seizures of cattle which had taken place in Co. Cork.

Some members of the Munster Agricultural Society's general committee resigned their membership because it was decided to carry on the show, and there were rumours of a demonstration in force by those who feel aggrieved at the action of the Government. The Society, feeling that it was in no way responsible for the event protested against, went on with the show, and secured English support to make a good display under adverse conditions.

CIVIC GUARDS PRESENT

To guard against any invasion of the premises, large numbers of Civic Guards in uniform and plain clothes were on duty in the Showyard, but nothing occurred to call for their interference, the day's programme being carried through without a hitch, but under unpleasant weather conditions.

Meanwhile a small number of men paraded the city, carrying banners, with such words as: "Best Show of Irish Pedigree Stock, twice weekly at Fermoy entrance by favour."

Apart from a number of notable absentees, the trade and industrial section was exceptionally good, and there was quite a good attendance of the public.

A section that was greatly missed by visitors, and especially by parties of agricultural students who came to study, was the educational display usually staged by the Cork County Committee of Agriculture and the Department of Agriculture. This was closed by order of the Cork County Committee of Agriculture.

An equestrian display by the First Artillery Brigade of the Free State Army provided a strong attraction in the jumping enclosure, in addition to a jumping competition, but in order not to embarrass the Hunts the inter-Hunt jumping competition was abandoned. Owing to the partial boycott, competition in most of the classes was limited, although the animals exhibited reached a high standard of merit. Dogs were a feature of great strength and brought entries from all parts of the country.

In a useful section for shorthorn cattle the Maxwell Gumbleton Cup and the silver medal for the breed champion went to Mr. Sean O'Carroll for his five-year-old roan cow, Pansy Bloom 3rd, Mr. E. MacLysaght's red cow, Ballingrane Lilac 2nd, being reserve. These animals were similarly placed for the best female shorthorn. The Kenmare Cup for female shorthorns calved on or after 1st January, 1933, was won by Mr. E. McLysaght's Coolcuill Lady, with Mr. E. J. Clarke's Aghamarta Princess 4th, reserve. The Irish Aberdeen Angus silver medal went to Mr. E. J. Clarke's three-year-old cow, Elspie of Aghamarta, Mr. P. McCarthy's bull calf Finbar 2nd being reserve. In a small section of Herefords the breed medal went to Major T. P. Morgan's cow, Snowdrop Again 20th.

Some useful horses were shown, but in their case the cups will not be awarded until to-day. If conditions had been normal it is certain that a number of horses would have been sold for export to Britain, but possible buyers thought better of coming over in view of reports which had reached them. There had also been an attempt to prevent some of the judges attending by those who wanted the show postponed, but this failed.

To-day's awards included the following:—

THE INDUSTRIAL SHOW

MANY NOTABLE EXHIBITS

Although the exhibitions in the Industrial Section of Cork Show numbered nine less than last year (the figures being—1934 100, 1935 91), the Main and Lee halls attracted a goodly patronage during the morning and afternoon. Some of the more important stalls were:—

Punch and Co.—"Science" polishes, covering the entire range of personal and domestic requirements, are displayed in many varieties on Stand No. 55, and the resultant effect is one that epitomises in a marked degree the firm's slogan, "On Merit Alone," and which has made "Science" polishes and creams a household word for furniture, shoes and floors.

Charles Nolan and Sons, Ltd.—An interesting and attractive display of the most hygienic bedding is shown at the "Swan" Stands (Nos. 19 and 20), where Swan upholstered mattresses are shown in various grades. Wool in some cases and the finest hair in others are utilised to make mattresses to suit every pocket. Distinctive features of each product are hundreds of resilient, tempered springs, each insulated from the other, the whole mattress being kept sweet and fresh by ventilators in the sides and ends.

Ideal Waterproofs, Ltd.—This firm, which started a year ago at Union quay with a staff of eight employés, now number over one hundred workers on the pay-roll. Waterproof and showerproof coats, oilskins, leggings, caps and capes are displayed on the firm's stall.

Lamb Bros. (Dublin), Ltd.—Fruitfield preserves, in the shape of canned and bottled plums, strawberries, pears, etc., and table jellies, crystallised fruits, etc., are shown in wide variety.

Ogilvie and Moore, Ltd.—In the realm of fruit preservation, Messrs. Ogilvie and Moore show on Stands Nos. 73 and 74 that Cork can provide jams, jellies, sweets and marmalades second to none.

Ryan's Soaps.—This well-known Cork soap manufacturing concern has a distinctive display of their products, many of which afford to the purchaser the opportunity of participating in a prize scheme that bestows gifts such as towels, silk stockings, etc.

Mitchelstown Creameries.—Irish milk, rated as the finest in the world, goes to the making of "Galtee" and "Whitethorn Cheese," and thousands of attractive packets and boxes of this healthy food make Stand No. 34 one of the most attractive in the show.

Frigidaire.—Messrs. Crosses' Garage, Ltd., of 12 South Mall, Cork, are displaying electrical refrigerators to suit the owner of cottage or castle. Each unit fulfills the most exacting conditions in keeping food fresh, and is eminently suitable for storing meat, butter, poultry, eggs and bacon—a problem that so often confronts private individuals, as well as hotel proprietors, hospital authorities and others.

HORSE-JUMPING

Open Jumping Competition, over the course—1, Sean Hyde's Gunmetal; 2, M. J. Forrest's Lucky Strike; 3, M. J. Forrest's Safety; 4, S. Hyde's Sideline.

GALWAY BY-ELECTION

A SMALL POLL

Candidates—E. Corbett, F.F.
T. MacDonogh, U.I.P.
Counting takes place on Friday.

FROM OUR CORRESPONDENT.

GALWAY, Wednesday.

The total poll in Galway by-election in Galway City to-day was slightly over 6,000, or 55 per cent. of the electorate. The city poll about 4 o'clock was very low, and not until after 6 o'clock was there much activity at the booths.

There was a very high poll in part of South Connemara, Spiddal, Tully, Carraroe, etc., and in some of these areas the percentage polled is believed to be up to 80 per cent. East Galway, however, did not do so well, and in some areas the poll is said to be well under 40 per cent.

Both parties had the support of a strong transport service.

Polling boxes from the rural areas began to arrive at the Town Hall shortly after 9 o'clock to-night. All will not be in until some time on Thursday. Boxes from the islands will be brought to the mainland by motor-boat and currach, and the count will begin on Friday morning.

The result will probably be known on Friday night.

In Loughrea the poll was fairly heavy, and reports from Ballinasloe, Athenry, Tuam, and other areas indicate an estimated poll of something over 60 per cent.

BILLS IN DAIL

CORK'S NEW FEVER HOSPITAL

Leave was given in the Dail yesterday to introduce the Cork Fever Hospital Bill, 1935. The object of the bill is to make provision for the establishment of a new fever hospital in or near the City of Cork and the closing of the Cork Fever Hospital and House of Recovery, and to provide for other matters connected with it.

The second stage was fixed for Tuesday next.

Leave was granted to the Minister for Finance for the introduction of the Approved Investments (Amendment) Bill, 1935. This will amend the Approved Investments Act, 1923, by extending certain limiting periods mentioned in that Act, and by making provision for further extension of all or any such period.

The second stage was fixed for next Wednesday.

Lili Damita, the Paris-born film star, and Mr. Erroll Flynn, described as an Irish athlete, left Hollywood yesterday by special aeroplane for Yuma, Arizona, where they intend to get married.

COUNTY CORK RATE COLLECTION

At Cork County Council yesterday, Mr. D. L. O'Gorman presiding, the Secretary reported that £350,549 in rates had now been collected, leaving £87,223 outstanding.

The amount collected represented just over 80 per cent. of entire warrant, and exactly corresponded with the percentage on the same date a year ago.

A mine, presumably a relic of the Great War, which was drifting in the North Sea, has been destroyed by a Danish torpedo boat.

Darby and Joan are old-fashioned folk

Like their grannies before them, Darby and Joan enjoy the deliciously light summer fare which cornflour and milk has provided for over three generations. Look at them telling each other how they enjoyed their supper sweet. Which was it? Whipped egg blancmange, old fashioned custard, fresh fruit jelly or chocolate souffle.

There is a cornflour dish for every day . . . each one different . . . loved by all Darbies and Joans.

NEWS SUMMARY

IRELAND

A Select Committee is to be set up to inquire into the Wicklow gold mining concession, which was again debated at length in the Dail yesterday.—(Page 7.)

The trouble in Belfast has broken out in a new area. Last night several shots were fired in California street, off the Old Lodge road. The police during Tuesday night visited several houses in the York street area, from which they took eight men, who have been detained.—(Page 7.)

Viscountess Pirrie, President of Messrs. Harland and Wolff, the Belfast shipbuilders, died in London yesterday.—(Page 11.)

GREAT BRITAIN

Irishmen were first, second, sixth and eighth in the Light-weight Tourist Trophy Race in the Isle of Man yesterday. D. J. Pirie, a London rider, was killed during the race.—(Page 7.)

SPORTING

At Down Royal Meeting yesterday Boinne-na-Brugh won the Ulster Plate, Phlox the Thorn Cup, Western Front the Montalto Cup, H.W. the Finaghy Plate, Delightful the King's Plate, and Delay the Banbridge Plate.—(Page 10.)

At Ascot yesterday Priok won the Royal Hunt Cup, Scattercash being second and Llanarmon third.—(Page 10.)

FINANCIAL

London Stock Markets were cheerful. Gilt-edged securities were again stronger, and Gold shares were favoured. Some Industrials were weak.—(Page 3.)

Discounts were firm. Gold was lowered to 140s. 11½d. per oz., and £330,000 was sold.—(Page 3.)

Dublin Market was very quiet. Rails were firm, and Alliance Gas improved.—(Page 3.)

Britain and Germany

During the last six or seven months a noteworthy change has come over the relations between Britain and Germany. After the World War Britain, alone among the victorious Powers, realised that the extremists' desire to crush Germany was foolish, and, in pursuit of her traditional policy of a balance of power in Europe, did her best to make matters as easy as possible for the defeated Germans. When Mr. Lloyd George, who was responsible for the "Hang the Kaiser" slogan, retired from the Premiership, giving way to Mr. Bonar Law, this policy was continued, and in 1923, when the French entered the Ruhr, the British Government showed its stern disapproval of M. Poincaré's action. Thereafter Britain and Germany came gradually more closely together. The British realised that the sins of the fathers ought not to be visited on the children of the new Germany, and while Herr Stresemann was at the Wilhelmstrasse there was a distinct rapprochement between London and Berlin. Then Stresemann died, and the policy which he and M. Briand had followed in Europe—the policy of general reconciliation and appeasement—went swiftly by the board. The Hitler movement began to gain ground with remarkable rapidity, until eventually it came into power, and Herr Hitler became Chancellor of the Third Reich. Up to this point the relations between Britain and Germany had been consistently good. They had reached a point, indeed, at which it almost might be said that the old friendship of pre-Edwardian days was being restored; but the barbaric methods of the new régime proved to be too much for the British stomach. The Nazis' persecution of the Jews caused much resentment not only in England, but throughout the British Empire, in which religious toleration is a long-established principle. Then came the attack on the Christian Churches, which evoked a storm of adverse criticism, and finally the massacres of June 30th when Herr Hitler and General Goering murdered some of their most intimate associates in cold blood, caused a general revulsion of feeling against the whole German nation.

Britain was among the first countries to take fright at Herr Hitler's aggressive policy in foreign affairs, and last year Mr. Stanley Baldwin made a highly significant speech, in the course of which he said that henceforward Britain's frontier would be on the Rhine. At the time, his statement was interpreted widely as a sign that Britain intended to make common cause with France against the Nazis. The French welcomed it, and Herr Hitler seemed to be much impressed by its political implications. Then came the famous White Paper, issued by Mr. Ramsay Macdonald on the eve of Sir John Simon's projected visit to Berlin. This document reinforced the Baldwin statement, and seemed to prove conclusively that Britain was prepared to stand with France and the other Entente Powers in the event of German aggression. The Germans' answer was Herr Hitler's announcement that the Conscription Law was about to be reintroduced. Britain again took the lead in her strong protest against this flagrant breach of the Versailles Treaty. Sir John Simon and Mr. Anthony Eden went to Berlin, where they discussed the matter with the Fuehrer, and came back to London more firmly convinced than ever that a stand must be made against Nazi arrogance. Britain supported the French thesis at Geneva, when a complaint was made to the League of Nations, with the result that Herr Hitler announced that not only would Germany bring her land forces up to a strength in keeping with Germany's importance as a first-class Power, but also that she would re-build her navy. Here was a direct challenge to Britain; and for a time it looked as if Germany would be isolated completely in Europe. A remarkable debate in the House of Lords, however, indicated that British policy was veering round in sympathy with the Germans. It began to transpire that the realists in the Foreign Office were inclining to the view that it would be a tragic mistake to ostracise such a powerful nation as the Germans; and last Tuesday's naval agreement suggests that the British Government is doing its utmost to prevent a quarrel.

Possibly, the most significant fact of all is the statement that was made recently by the Prince of Wales, in which His Royal Highness publicly proclaimed the burial of the hatchet between British and German ex-Service men. It is evident now that, if Germany behaves even reasonably well, Britain will treat her with sympathy. Certain essential facts, however, must be borne in mind. The people of the British Commonwealth—and nowadays they all must be taken into consideration—have been shocked by the Nazis' attitude towards the Christian Churches, and, if Herr Hitler values British friendship, he will take the earliest possible opportunity to mend his hand in this respect. It is all very well to say that what the Nazis do within the frontiers of the Reich is their own affair. To a certain extent this statement is true; but the Christian Churches are world-wide in their scope, and no Government that tries to persecute them can hope to escape the condemnation of civilised society. Most sensible folk are prepared to admit that the Germans did not get a square deal during the post-Versailles years, and have been prepared for some time to make amends. The British people, in particular, with their inherent sense of "fair play," have no desire to act unjustly towards the Germans; but they expect, in return, that the Germans shall not act unjustly by any of those whom they have in their power. Since mediæval days there has been no civilised parallel to the Nazis' treatment of the Jews. Even Tsarist Russia did not outlaw them, and there is not the least doubt that Germany never will be welcomed back into the comity of responsible nations until she has done something to compensate the Jews for the terrible wrong that has been done to them. Herr Hitler has an opportunity now to give his country a fresh start. If he takes it, he will have the sympathy, if not the active support, of the whole British people; but, if he allows it to slip, another generation will pass before the events of the last three years will be forgotten.

Progress in Industry

An Official Industrial Directory of Saorstát Eireann, compiled by the Department of Industry and Commerce, has just made its public appearance, via the Stationery Office. We have had no opportunity to check its fulness, but all the evidence goes to show that it is a comprehensive and "up to the minute" survey of the Free State's industrial development. Most people, when they look through the pages of this volume, will be surprised; for most people fail to realise the remarkable variety of articles that is manufactured to-day within the twenty-six counties. Whatever price he may have been compelled to pay for it, President de Valera has kept his promise to encourage industry in the Free State. Hundreds of articles are made in this country to-day that were not made here even a few years ago; and most of them are well made, and no dearer than, in all the circumstances, they have a right to be. Our only fear is that the progress may have been too swift. Of the factories which have been established in the Free State thus far some are the last word in modernity. They are admirably built, fitted with the newest and most efficient machinery; their sites have been selected with no less regard to the amenities of their neighbourhoods than to their own practical needs. This is the sort of factory that justifies the Government's programme, and this is the sort that is likely to prove a blessing, rather than an encumbrance, to the Free State. Other factories, to put it moderately, are not so good. We think that a stage in the nation's industrial progress has been reached when the Government ought to take more thought about the grant of manufacturing licences. Its programme began with a virtually clean sheet; manifestly, the first thing to be done was to facilitate the establishment of factories in every possible place and for every possible purpose. Henceforward, the Saorstát's industrial development ought to proceed in accordance with some sort of a plan. Mr. Lemass, in our opinion, would do well to discourage the building of factories in places where they are bound to be an eyesore. He would do well, moreover, to discourage the housing of new industries in old buildings—buildings which date from a time when light, air and general appearance were held in less respect than they enjoy to-day. The dingy bricks and small windows of the industrial 1850's do not accord well with modern ideas of industry; and, if it is cheaper at the moment to build factories badly, or to employ old factories, the price will be paid in a few years from now, when the public will have been awakened to a new pride in the appearance and smartness of its country. We think that from now onwards no projected industry should receive encouragement from the Government, in the form of tariffs or in any other shape, unless its factories conform with certain specified conditions regarding site, construction and what must be called, for want of a better word, "up-to-dateness." Ireland ought to benefit by the horrid example of other countries. She wants no "Black Country."

In Search of Fame

A few years ago the people who were sitting on top of flag-poles in the United States of America occupied a prominent place in the world's news. This type of freak record is confined almost exclusively to the American nation, and it is, happily, something which we on this side of the Atlantic find difficult to appreciate. To sit upon a flag-pole for a fortnight admittedly requires a certain amount of determination; but surely any normally athletic person who made up his mind to it could run the champion pole-squatter hard? In records of this nature the biggest problem must be the choice of activity, since, as civilisation spreads its beneficent influence ever wider, more and more people are attracted to push nuts up mountains with knitting needles, or to transverse tractless forests on pigs, until, eventually, it must seem to the would-be record-breaker that all the really worthwhile records already have been broken. The crusading spirit, however, never dies, and its latest manifestation comes from Beechworth, a small village about a hundred miles from Melbourne, in Australia. The local garage proprietor has decided to push the local publican to the top of Buffalo Plateau, some fifty miles away, and says he can do it in eight days. The conditions of the contest are as follows: Since the publican weighs fourteen stone, the garage proprietor is permitted to support him with straps hung from the handles of the conveyance; and, since the publican is in for a pretty miserable time anyway, he is allowed to bring with him an overcoat, an umbrella and a rubber cushion. This, undoubtedly, is an improvement upon the somewhat slowly-moving sport of pole-squatting, since the spectacle of one man pushing another in a wheelbarrow is shot through with interest and excitement; and there are so many subsidiary sources of entertainment. We should like to be present when the publican, after a tiring day awheel, orders two Hamburger steaks and a pound of new potatoes, in the face of all the garage proprietor's efforts to tempt him with a little toast and soda water.

Irish Air Services

The public will be glad to hear that the lack of regular air transport between the Free State and the rest of the world, which has been commented upon more than once in these columns, is about to be remedied. In the Dáil yesterday Mr. Lemass stated that an experimental, but regular, air service to Great Britain probably will be begun next month, and will be continued throughout the winter. His idea is that this service should provide information on technical points, and he hopes that a permanent service will be set up next year. Equally encouraging is his statement that the Government has been in close touch with the possibilities of a trans-Atlantic air service, and is anxious to secure that the geographical position of the Free State will not be overlooked. These signs of activity are doubly welcome; for it has seemed to many people that great opportunities were being missed, and that official apathy was content to miss them. The convenience of an air link with Great Britain, indeed, is hardly more important than the realisation of the Free State's future as a link with America. It may be many years before a regular trans-Atlantic service is in being, but everything points to the fact that it will come sooner or later. When it does come, and if the Free State is prepared for it, there is no reason why she should not become a very important base. If enough foresight is shown now, the future air routes may be planned to our advantage; if not, they almost certainly will be diverted. Already the experts have been considering the most suitable routes for a trans-Atlantic service, and up to the present the Free State has given them little reason to think that any facilities can be provided here. Mr. Lemass has excused the delay on the grounds that too great haste might lead to a development on the wrong lines. While we can appreciate his point of view, it is equally obvious that any further delay, either in the provision of air transport or landing facilities, may have even worse results.

THE PROGRESS OF SCIENCE

IS IT A MENACE TO CIVILISATION?

Dr. Walter Starkie, F.,T.C.D., presided at a meeting of the College Historical Society, in Trinity College, Dublin, last night, when honorary members of the Society debated the motion: "That the progress of science is a menace to civilisation."

Mr. D. G. Neill, Auditor-elect, opening in the affirmative, said that one of the most essential characteristics of our civilisation was artificiality. To some people that might seem to be a sign of progress, but to others it would appear to be a sign of decadence. He would ask if civilisation infused ideas of liberty and justice? He, personally, did not think that our civilisation produced these ideas. Society for the past hundred years was not on the up-grade. Although science might have conferred material benefits upon us, it did not give that essential moral control over our instincts which should be the characteristic of civilisation. As a result of the advance of science they had had an inevitable loss of their sense of values and of their tradition of education.

Mr. Leonard, K.C., said that science had made life more worth living for the ordinary member of the community. If science had made war more terrible, that was not the fault of science, but of human nature. Civilisation was not in any way endangered by the advance of science.

Mr. W. B. Stanford, F.T.C.D., and Mr. A. G. Quirke continued the discussion.

Mr. Brereton Barry, K.C., said that they were all enormously dependent on modern science in every movement of their lives. Whether science was a menace to civilisation was a question which, he realised, was one that had two sides. They had now scientists like Jeans and Eddington going full circle against materialist interpretations of science, and giving a mystical or religious value to life. Their views did not, however, affect civilisation. What did affect civilisation was the enormous power science had given to man. But it had given him that power without also giving him knowledge how he should use it.

Mr. T. de Vere White, in a witty speech, spoke in support of the motion.

Mr. Kingsmill Moore, K.C., speaking also on the same side, said that science was now preserving and prolonging human life to an extent unknown in former times.

Mr. Cecil Darley said that the tendency of applied science was towards the destruction of civilisation.

On a division, there voted for the motion 12, against 17.

Replying to a vote of thanks, Dr. Starkie said that they should work for a civilisation informed with the spirit of the humanism of the Renaissance.

REPRESENTATIVE CHURCH BODY

MR. G. B. BUTLER BECOMES SECRETARY

Mr. George B. Butler, of 6 Villiers road, Rathgar, Dublin, was yesterday appointed Secretary of the Church of Ireland Representative Church Body, in succession to the late Captain Anthony F. Maude.

Born in Dublin and educated at the High School, Mr. Butler entered the services of the Representative Church Body in March, 1903. Ten years ago he was appointed chief accountant to the Body, which position he continued to fill until his appointment as Secretary yesterday. At all times taking a very keen interest in the activities of the Church of Ireland, and, in particular, in connection with the parish of St. Philip, Milltown, Dublin, he is parochial treasurer of the parish and a member of the select vestry. A great supporter and a zealous worker in all branches of missionary work, Mr. Butler is a member of the Committee and a trustee of the Church Missionary Society. He also has taken a great interest in the Erasmus Smith Schools, of which he is a governor. Mr. Butler is a member of the United Services Club, Dublin.

A founder of the Castle Golf Club, Rathfarnham, County Dublin, he has done much good work in connection with the club, and is a past captain, one of the present vice-presidents, and for many years has been honorary secretary. Interested in particular in the Leinster Branch of the Golfing Union of Ireland he was honorary secretary of the Union for five years, and chairman of the branch for another five years. He is a member of the Central Council, and one of the selectors of international golfing teams. Himself a useful golfer, he was a semi-finalist in the John Lumsden Memorial Cup competition, played at the Clontarf Club in 1933. His son, Dr. Arthur H. Butler, is a leading member of the Trinity College, Dublin, golf team, and an ex-captain of the College golf club.

Mr. C. F. Pike, Conservative M.P. for the Attercliffe Division of Sheffield, was suddenly taken ill at the House of Commons yesterday. Two medical members of the House, Dr. Worthington and Dr. J. W. Leech, immediately rendered assistance, and Mr. Pike was afterwards taken by ambulance to Westminster Hospital.

COURT AND PERSONAL

Again Ascot was handicapped by the wet weather, and the Royal procession lost much of its brilliant effect. The Queen and the Royal party reached the stands soon after 1 p.m., but everyone was wrapped up and prepared for wet weather.

The King and Queen will hold the third Court of the season next Tuesday. The number of débutantes to be presented is exceptionally large.

The Duchess of York will be present next Tuesday at the matinée which Miss Vacani is organising at the London Hippodrome in aid of the Princess Elizabeth of York Hospital for Children at Shadwell.

The Grand Duke Dmitri and Princess Ilynski, who have been staying in London, have left to pay some visits in the country. The Marquis de St. Sanveur has arrived in London from Paris. Baron Wedel Jarlsberg has arrived in London from the Continent.

The Marquess and Marchioness of Salisbury have returned from Cranborne to London. The Marquess and Marchioness of Headfort have arrived in London, and will spend the rest of the season there.

Mr. G. M. Huggins, the Prime Minister of Southern Rhodesia, who has had a busy time in London, has been taking a few days' rest in Scotland, but will return to London at the end of this week. Baroness Palmstierna left London yesterday for Sweden. Colonel and Madame Balsan have left London for the Continent.

The Duchess of Brunswick, Prince Ernest of Hanover, Princess Frederick of Hanover, the Countess of Gainsborough and party, the Marquess and Marchioness of Dufferin and Ava, Lord and Lady Howard de Walden, Lord and Lady Plunket, the Earl and Countess of Dunmore, Viscountess Scarsdale, Sir Anthony and W. T. Weldon and the Earl and Countess of Munster were among the guests at the dance which Lady Weigall gave on Tuesday night for her daughter and Miss A. Larken at Englemere, Ascot, where the gardens were floodlit.

Lady Butler arrived in Dublin yesterday from Liverpool. Sir Walter and Lady Huggard have arrived in Dublin. Sir George Murphy left Dublin yesterday. The Hon. Mary Somerville has left Dublin for London. Mr. and Mrs. J. Russell, Brigadier-General D. J. Hammond and Mrs. Steele are among the arrivals.

SELECT COMMITTEE TO INVESTIGATE DAIL CHARGES

WICKLOW MINING CONCESSION STORM

MR. LEMASS AND MR. McGILLIGAN AGAIN

LIVELY EXCHANGES MARK DEBATE

MINISTER'S INVITATION TO INSPECT FILES

A SELECT Committee is to be set up to investigate the whole matter of the Wicklow mining concession, around which another storm raged in the Dail yesterday.

Mr. Lemass, Minister for Industry and Commerce, indicated his intention of setting up such a body.

The Minister replied to Mr. McGilligan's statement made in the Dail last Friday. He denied seriatim the suggestion of Mr. McGilligan, and invited any deputy in the House to examine the full files relating to the matter, and he would satisfy himself that Mr. McGilligan's charges were without foundation.

Mr. McGilligan had charged the Government with corruption, by granting a prospecting lease to members of the Government Party—a Fianna Fail deputy and the Vice-Chairman of the Senate—to prospect for gold in County Wicklow.

"VALUABLE STATE PROPERTY"

Deputy McGilligan had made a statement in the House last Friday concerning mines in County Wicklow, Mr. LEMASS said, which some of the newspapers saw fit to describe as "a serious charge" against the Government. He (the Minister) had read the statement in the newspapers and in the official report, and was not quite clear as to the exact nature of the charge. He proposed to give all the information concerning those mines now. He regretted that Deputy McGilligan was not in the House. It was difficult to know whether they should regard that deputy as an impish schoolboy, sitting in a pool of mud, squirting slime at his more respectable companions, or an unfortunate investigator whose mind had become so warped with hatred and rancour that he could not see any decency anywhere, and whose mare's nests turned out to be booby traps.

LEASES

Article 11 of the Constitution set out that all mines and minerals vested in the State shall belong to Saorstat Eireann, and shall be controlled and administered by the Oireachtas. Licences might be granted for the working of mines by lessees under the authority of the Oireachtas. No lease would run for more than 99 years, and no lease could be renewed. The legislation of 1931, that was the Mines and Minerals Act, was designed by Deputy McGilligan, and gave power to lease State lands for periods not greater than 99 years. A section in that Act provided that leases would be granted in the public interest, and the Minister might take into consideration the general advantages likely to be achieved on behalf of the State. It was quite clear that the intention of the Act was to enable the development of mineral rights to be undertaken, and to put the State in the position in which private persons could be authorised to prospect for minerals, and, if found, work them commercially. Since the Act some 50 applications for leases had been received; of those 18 were granted. Of that 18 seven were prospecting leases, and the remaining eleven were for periods from 99 to 21 years. None of the seven leases mentioned had yet reached the stage where an application could be put forward for a reversion lease. All those leases contained provisions regarding a half-yearly head-rent, royalties and sub-letting, and the proper working of the minerals and the number of able-bodied men to be employed.

THE LEASE IN QUESTION

The Minister was not quite clear what Deputy McGilligan was getting at. There was nothing in the Act which stated that leases should not be given to supporters or members of the Fianna Fail Party. The history of the lease in question went back to the time of the last Government, and application was made by Senator Michael Comyn and Deputy Robert Briscoe, and another whose name he need not mention. The application was for a mining lease for nine townlands in County Wicklow. A prospecting lease was granted on November 1, 1934, in respect of three townlands for a period of two years, and all the provisions concerning head rent, royalties, etc., were laid down.

At this stage Mr. McGilligan entered the House.

Application was made by these people in respect of certain townlands in County Wicklow, and they got that lease subject to all the usual conditions.

The lease was issued for three townlands only, although application had been made originally for nine townlands. That was due to the fact that the delay while the Land Commission examined ownership title, which must be done before the granting of any lease, would have been too long. The applicants had since applied for a lease for the remaining six townlands, but that was still under consideration.

STATE LANDS ACT

The Minister then read from the official debates Mr. McGilligan's reference to the matter last Friday. He said that Mr. McGilligan was wrong in saying that the matter arose under the State Lands Act; wrong in saying that it was a matter in which the Minister for Finance had responsibility; wrong in saying that the terms were that the new concessionaires were to pay one-twenty-fifth; wrong in stating that it was given merely to be hawked around London. He was also wrong in stating that a sub-lease could not be granted without the approval of the Minister for Finance.

He wanted to make it clear that a prospecting lease of the kind granted could hardly be described as a concession. It was a lease of State mineral lands for not more than two years, and imposed on the lessees the obligation of carrying out a search for minerals and mineral resources, and to report the result of their investigations to the Department. It contained also the provision that, if the search and trial proved the existence of minerals, and the lessee satisfied the Minister that he possessed the financial and technical resources for their full development, a further lease for 97 years shall be granted.

It was entirely contrary to fact to state that the lease was hawked around London. Whatever information the Department had indicated that that was untrue. It was also untrue to state that the lessee had no industrial history in the matter. That was entirely without foundation. At least one of the lessees was a person who had a very considerable interest over a long time in mineral development here, and had been engaged in various projects here over a long time.

VAGUE HINTS

Deputy McGilligan must have known that when he was Minister for Industry and Commerce. It was quite clear that Deputy McGilligan did not intend to make a charge. He never did so, but confined himself to vague hints. He wished the people to believe that the Government gave to certain persons who were their supporters in the Oireachtas a concession of valuable State property, and that they gave it because they were Government supporters, and to enable them to sell it to others, although the Government could have disposed of the property to greater advantage otherwise. Deputy McGilligan made that insinuation on Friday morning, when he knew that it would be impossible for the Government to reply, and that his insinuation would have a week-end start. Incidentally, there were two by-elections in the interval.

It was assumed that this was valuable property. So far as he (Mr. Lemass) was concerned, he had no information that this was a valuable property. Certain statements were made that there were millions of pounds' worth of gold in these townlands. He hoped that was true, but, so far as he was aware, there had been no adequate investigation, and no one could say whether there was that amount of gold there or not.

WITHOUT FOUNDATION

The suggestion that the lease was given because the lessees were political supporters of the Government was entirely without foundation. At the time the application was made there was no other application before the Department. It was a case of granting it to them or of not granting it to anybody, and the object of the bill was to have their mineral resources investigated. The insinuation that the lease was made to enable the lessees to dispose of it as a property was also entirely without foundation. The actual terms of the lease provided that no assignment or sub-lease could be given without the consent of the Minister for Industry and Commerce. In fact, no application for such consent had been made by the lessees, although if such an application were made it would probably be granted, if he were satisfied that the granting would lead to commercial development of the mineral resources in this area.

With regard to the insinuation that the Government could have disposed of this to better advantage, he pointed out that there was no other application before them at the time; that the lease was in the usual form, and subject to the same dead rate and royalty charges as all other leases.

IN 1930

Already in 1930 Mr. McGilligan, who was then Minister for Industry and Commerce, was approached by a representative of Crusade Prospectors, Limited—a Mr. Heiser, an Australian, who had credentials from the Queensland Government, and who, so far as he was aware, was an exceedingly reputable gentleman. The Crusade Prospectors, Limited, was a London company, which included in its directorate Sir H. Brittan, Sir Basil Clarke, and other well-known figures. This company applied to Mr. McGilligan for authority to prospect for gold and other minerals in Wicklow, and subsequently prospect generally throughout the Saorstat. Mr. McGilligan pointed out that, as the Mines and Minerals Act had not yet been passed, he had no power to issue such a lease or grant such licence; but he indicated that if their company proceeded with their prospecting, making whatever arrangements were necessary with the surface owners and with the various Government departments, he promised favourable consideration, subject to their proposals being in every way satisfactory to the conditions of the bill when passed, and giving them priority for their application for a lease after the passing of the Act. By this time Crusade Prospectors, Ltd., had become the Reis Berget Syndicate, and it was with this that the discussions proceeded. An Irish group was now organised, named the Irish Prospectors, Ltd., which included Mr. F. M. Summerfield, Mr. Joseph McGrath, Mr. Heiser and others. He did not quite know what Mr. McGilligan's interest in the matter was, but the position remained the same until after the passing of the Act and the change of Government.

LONDON INTERESTS

These London interests, with their Irish associates, had indicated their interests in the minerals. Mr. Heiser expressed the personal opinion that valuable mineral deposits existed, and that they proposed

THE TERMS OF REFERENCE

OTHER MATTERS ALSO?

POSSIBLE FULL INQUIRY

FROM OUR POLITICAL CORRESPONDENT.

FOLLOWING yesterday's debate in the Dail it is likely that a full inquiry into various matters, including the Wicklow gold affair, will be insisted upon.

Mr. Sean Lemass, Minister for Industry and Commerce, will, it is understood, himself put down a motion authorising the setting up of the Select Committee. The notice will, it is expected, appear on the order paper for next Tuesday, when the Dail will meet again.

The Committee will be a Select Committee. Its powers and duties will be set out in the motion to be put down by Mr. Lemass. It will, as a matter of course, be given power to send for papers and persons, and be endowed with the powers of a Court of Justice. Whether the Press will be permitted to attend will be a matter for the decision of the Committee itself. The Committee will also decide whether the official reporters will be required to take notes of its proceedings.

The extent of the terms of reference to be submitted to the Committee will, of course, be important. During yesterday's debate Mr. Lemass told the House that he was willing that the fullest investigation should be made into the affairs of his department. Mr. McGilligan accepted this offer, and indicated a series of items which he would add to the Wicklow gold affair. Mr. Lemass, however, demurred to this, and suggested that it should be confined to the Wicklow matter. It is quite probable that the Opposition party may insist on a much wider inquiry.

Special committees have from time to time been set up to investigate various matters. The most important was that which was known as the Broadcasting Select Committee. This was set up in the early years of the Free State's existence, and its report, as many people will recollect, made many disclosures of a remarkable character.

that they should be granted some sort of monopoly concession; but their proposals were not accepted, and they were informed that while they could not be given absolute priority in respect of any application made before the Act, nevertheless, if they proceeded to do the prospecting work, they could anticipate favourable consideration in respect of any application they made when the Minister had power to grant it.

The Mines and Minerals Act was passed, and shortly afterwards there was a change of Government. This particular group then appeared to lose interest. Certain members were in America, and others, according to their own statements, were temporarily involved in financial difficulties, and generally indicated they were unable to proceed.

Early in 1932 they were informed that the Act was passed, and were invited to send in their application, but the reply indicated that an application was not likely to be forthcoming for some time. They gave the members of that group a full twelve months. In May, 1933, they wrote to them, and said that, as they had not replied, they regarded their application as having lapsed. Similar letters were sent to other applicants who had also allowed their priority claims to lapse.

Then the application which had been submitted by Senator Comyn and Deputy Briscoe was taken up. It was discussed at considerable length, and the application was very carefully examined. It was modified, and in November, 1933, eight months after the application was made, a prospecting lease was granted. Obviously there was no charge against the Government because certain people interested in mineral development applied for a lease and got it, and placed on themselves the obligation of carrying out a search for minerals. The insinuation was that the Government gave that lease knowing that the lessees were going to sell it immediately to somebody else at a profit. So far as he was aware, no such allegation could be sustained.

SUB-LEASE

The only application, in fact, which was received for the Minister's consent to a sub-lease was received very shortly after the lease was granted, and was for the purpose of permitting the Riseberget Syndicate to set up a gold mining unit in the three townlands. As the documents did not reveal the names of the parties, but merely indicated that certain experimental work would be carried out, they were informed that the Minister's consent did not appear to be required. Subsequently Irish Prospectors, Ltd., came into the picture.

Apparently this group was associated with the proposed establishment of the experimental mining unit on the leasehold of Senator Comyn and Deputy Briscoe, because they communicated with the Department representing themselves as perturbed about the Minister's sanction to the sub-lease, and they asked for an assurance that if the lessees applied for a sub-lease to be granted to Riseberget, the Minister's sanction would not be withheld. He replied to say that he could not give any assurance at that stage, as the terms of the sub-lease were not known to him. His letter added that it was definitely his desire that the mineral resources of the district should be developed to the largest practicable extent, and that proposals for that purpose would have his sympathetic consideration.

AN AGREEMENT

It was true that the lessees supplied him with a copy of an agreement which they had made with Riseberget for the formation of a company to carry out the commercial working of the minerals in the area, but there was no application for his consent to the making of a sub-lease or assignment in any way of the lessees's interests, and that disposed of the whole of Deputy McGilligan's allegation.

It was quite obvious that Deputy McGilligan's insinuation was entirely without foundation. He thought that Deputy McGilligan knew that, and had been surprised that his insinuation had been taken seriously and regarded as a serious charge

It was time that deputies got out of the habit of abusing their privileged position in that House to make mean insinuations against persons engaged in commercial enterprises in this country—whether they happened to be political opponents or not.

He did not think it right to publish the

SECRET GOLD PROCESS

WORK FOR IRISHMEN

INTERVIEW WITH ENGINEER

FROM OUR CORRESPONDENT.

LONDON, Wednesday.

BY reason of a secret gold-mining process invented by Mr. M. E. Heiser, the Australian metallurgical engineer, Ireland's neglected goldfields may be developed. Mr. Heiser has had gold-mining experience in three Continents, and holds the patent rights of a number of inventions, including a gem-cutting device.

A company, the Irish Prospecting Co., Ltd., has recently been formed. The directors are M. E. Heiser, F. M. Summerfield, Dublin, motor engineer; E. J. Smyth, 52 Palmerston road, Dublin, and Manus Muran, Secretary. They have applied to the Free State Government for leases of three different areas, and if these are granted work will be started immediately.

Coupled with the cheap working costs of the Heiser process and the increase in the price of gold during the past few years, the mining of gold in Ireland may become an economic proposition.

The present capital of the company is £1,000, but on scanning the leases a quarter of a million syndicate will be formed.

Mr. Heiser, representing another company, the Riseberget Ore Syndicate, holds a sub-lease from Senator Comyn and Mr. R. Briscoe, T.D., of about 1,000 acres of land near Woodenbridge, Co. Wicklow.

£3,500 FOR SURVEYS

I discussed the situation this evening with Mr. G. Dunn, London, the consulting engineer to the company. In 1929 and 1930, in conjunction with Professor B. W. Holman, O.B.E., President of the Royal School of Mines, he made a thorough survey of the gold possibilities of certain areas in the Free State for Riseberget. To his knowledge at least £3,500 had been spent in these surveys.

At that time the Free State Government had no power to grant leases of mineral rights, but in 1931 a Mining Act was passed giving the Government the necessary power.

Mr. Dunn has just returned from a six weeks' visit to the Co. Wicklow areas. In conversation with Free State departmental officials he was assured that the active sympathy and support of the Government would be given to any genuine enterprise in mining that would bring general benefit to the Free State.

FROM "THE TIMES"

(BY SPECIAL ARRANGEMENT.)

BLOW TO NANKING

In an editorial article to-day The Times observes:—Although the latest episode in the relations between Japan and China is not yet ended, there are indications that the political sky in North China is clearing, and there is some prospect of a period of calmer weather intervening between the last and the next thunderstorm. Meanwhile the Chinese Central Government are anxiously taking stock of the new position. The Chiefs of the Japanese Army have obtained full satisfaction for most of their demands, and no one expects that their remaining conditions will be refused. The power of Republican China has sustained another cruel blow, and Chinese mistrust of Japanese diplomatic assurances has been revived. Though the Japanese militarists have acted in a manner contrary to the wishes and the declared policy of their Foreign Office, it is only too certain that Japanese diplomacy will not disdain the fruits of the soldiers' incursion into diplomacy. Chinese dislike—to use no stronger term—of Japanese military methods has been confirmed, but for the present the northernmost Chinese provinces are likely to remain in Chinese hands. Such, on balance, is the most probable outcome of the recent demonstration of Japanese power and ambition, which has aroused anxiety in more capitals than Nanking.

The Times refers to the Japanese demand for the removal of the Governor and General in Command of the Province of Chaliar, and as the Nanking Government like to confirm their acceptance of this and other demands in writing, it says, Chinese opinion is convinced that they will give way. They can do nothing else. They have not protested to the League of Nations, from which Japan has withdrawn, or to the Governments which signed the Nine-Power Pact at Washington and bound themselves to respect the territorial integrity of China. They fear, no doubt, that such action would draw fresh lightnings on their heads. They know that fresh hostilities with Japan would, in all probability, break that partial union of Central China which they have so painfully achieved, and revive the local ambitions of jealous provincial Governments or self-seeking generals, from which they had hoped to save their country.

It is easy to foresee that Peking, already deposed from its eminence by Nanking, and reduced to the status of a decaying provincial capital, will decline still more in importance. The latest crisis in its history can only confirm the impression that the maintenance of the British Embassy there has become an anachronism. The centre of British diplomacy in China should be at the heart of China—at the new capital of Nanking, not in the ancient city of Mongols of the Ming Dynasty, and, last of all, the Manchus. The old capital has become at once a museum of past glories and an exposed and defenceless border city.

CORK SHOW

BANNERS CARRIED IN THE STREET

FROM OUR CORRESPONDENT.

CORK, Wednesday.

On to-day, the opening day of Cork Summer Show, some interest was aroused in Cork by the appearance of a small group of men who paraded the principal thoroughfares carrying a banner bearing the words: "The best show of Irish pedigree stock, twice weekly at Fermoy. Admission by favour."

The men continued their parade despite the exceptionally heavy downpour of rain. The banner was obviously in reference to the frequent sales of seized cattle which have been taking place in Fermoy in recent months.

Mrs. Maureen Circuitt, the English woman charged with the theft from a Cannes night club of a jewelled powder box and brooch belonging to a friend who was a fellow-guest at a party, was, at Grasse yesterday, sentenced to one month's suspended imprisonment, and is, therefore, free.

ANOTHER T.T. DEATH

D. J. PIRIE KILLED

IRISH-ITALIAN VICTORY

DUBLIN RIDERS FIRST AND SECOND

STANLEY WOODS, the Dublin motor cyclist, on an Italian Moto-Guzzi, yesterday won the Light-weight Tourist Trophy Race in the Isle of Man. H. G. Tyrell Smith, another Dublin man, was second.

During the race Douglas J. Pirie, a young London architect, was killed, his being the second death in this week's meeting. The accident happened in the fifth lap, when Pirie was occupying sixth place. He crashed near the thirty-third milestone, on one of the most difficult parts of the course—the descent of the mountain near Creg-ny-Baa.

Pirie, who had taken over a machine that was to have been ridden by one of the men injured in practice, ran off the road in fog, and, hitting a concrete post, rolled down the mountainside. When assistance reached him it was found that he was unconscious. After receiving medical attention he was removed to hospital, and died as the result of a fractured skull, without having recovered consciousness.

Pirie rode in Monday's race, also as a substitute for another rider, and finished fourth. He had a long list of successes in the Isle of Man. He won the Junior Manx Grand Prix Races in 1930 and 1931, and last year was first in the Senior and second in the Junior Manx Races.

He raced purely for the thrill of it, and although he crashed on several occasions, it did not deter his love for the sport. He was an ex-public schoolboy, tall and fair-haired. His victory in the 1931 Junior Manx race will be long remembered. He crashed heavily during practice, but, to the surprise of everybody, left hospital the day before the race, and put in two qualifying laps, begging the doctor to allow him to ride. He was given a certificate, and, with his face still in bandages, set a pace which outstripped his rivals, and made new lap records for Junior machines. At the end of the 226 miles ride he collapsed, and was taken back to hospital. In the following year he crashed when leading.

Pirie was aged 28, and lived at Old Southgate, London.

STANLEY WOODS'S SUCCESS

FIRST FOREIGN WIN SINCE 1911

Yesterday, for the first time since 1911, when U.S. machines were first, second and third in the senior race, and for the second time since racing began in the Isle of Man in 1907 a Tourist Trophy race was won on a machine of foreign manufacture.

The blow to British supremacy was inflicted by the Italian makers of the Moto-Guzzi, who have been the most persistent of the Continental challengers, and who, nine years ago, only missed winning the light-weight trophy by a narrow margin. The Italian success yesterday was due in no small degree to the fact that one of their three machines was ridden by Stanley Woods, admittedly the greatest road-racing motor cyclist the world has ever produced.

Under the conditions prevailing yesterday—dense fog enveloping the island from start to finish of the race—his unique knowledge of the 373 miles' circuit, gained in fourteen consecutive years of racing in the island, proved of immense value. Despite conditions which were, without exaggeration, described as appalling, he covered one lap at 74.19 miles an hour, beating the three years' old record, and only failed by six seconds to beat the light-weight record for the full course, made two years ago in perfect weather.

Woods averaged 71.56 miles an hour for the 264 miles, and would have made a record for the race in spite of the fog and rain were in not that he established such a winning lead in the early stages that he could afford to ride with restraint in the second half.

TENNI CRASHES

It looked at one time as if the Italian machines would be first and second, as Tenni, an Italian rider of Moto-Guzzi, was second to Woods on the fourth of the seven laps, when he crashed, incidentally colliding with a marshal. Tenni's fall put H. G. Tyrell Smith into second place. He was over four minutes behind Woods when the fifth lap ended, but reduced the gap to two minutes forty-eight seconds at the finish.

The two Irishmen were followed by Ernest Nott, Coventry, who, like Smith, rode a Rudge; and with another Rudge in fifth place, that make won the manufacturers' award. The club team award was won by Leinster Club (Dublin), whose nominated trio—Woods, Manders and Burney—were first, sixth and eighth, respectively.

The twenty-seven starters were warned that visibility was very bad on the mountain road. As a fact, the whole eastern side of the island was enveloped in fog and the density increased as the race proceeded.

While accidents were numerous it was surprising they were not more so, for at places riders could not see more than thirty yards ahead of them.

WOODS DOMINANT

Woods dominated the race from the start. Taking the lead on the first lap he was over half a minute ahead of Nott and Tyrell Smith when he entered the second circuit. He continued to increase his lead until the Rudge pair were over

AWAITING MR. EDEN

PARIS AND NAVAL AGREEMENT

"SLIGHTLY LESS GLACIAL"

FOLLOWING the announcement of the Anglo-German naval agreement, discussions, which were resumed at the Admiralty yesterday, are now centreing in technical questions of considerable importance, such as the time in which Germany intends to complete her programme, types and sizes of vessels (says Reuter).

The belief prevailed in some quarters on Tuesday that, in view of the latitude she receives in regard to the construction of submarines, Germany might refrain from building aircraft-carriers. This will apparently not be the case, and it is now understood that the Reich contemplates adding vessels of this type to her Navy.

A slightly less glacial atmosphere was observable in the Paris Press last evening. While the Right is as angry as ever, there is a tendency among the moderates to await Mr. Eden's explanations.

"We quite understand the bad temper of certain of our compatriots," writes M. Henry Berenger, the President of the Senate Foreign Affairs Commission, in a striking article. "But we do not share it. These are the same people who are displeased to see Italy act on her own initiative regarding Abyssinia. It would not need much for these too good Frenchmen to accuse the English and the Italians of lack of patriotism towards France."

There is a perceptible division between hostile Press opinion and the Quai d'Orsay, which refuses to be alarmed at what it admits is a somewhat rapid overnight change on the diplomatic chess board.

It is considered in official circles that the British would not have agreed to Germany's 35 per cent. of Britain's naval strength if the French Fleet had been regarded as a potential enemy. Consequently, if Mr. Eden suggests that France need not regard the British Fleet as a potential enemy, then the corollary that Germany's 35 per cent. need not frighten France is likely to receive friendly consideration.

MINE MUTINY ENDS

SURRENDER BY CONVICTS

FROM REUTER'S CORRESPONDENT.

LANSING (KANSAS), Wednesday.

Three hundred and forty-seven convicts who mutinied more than seven hundred feet below ground yesterday are now safely locked in their cells again. They surrendered this morning after a grim battle with the authorities, during which the ventilator fans of the prison coal mine were reversed, forcing them to inhale the acrid wood smoke from the timber which they themselves had fired.

All the men were brought to the surface without incident and marched sheepishly to their cells under the muzzles of the guards' guns.

Captured guards, who had been held as hostages, were the first to emerge from the mine, led by the Assistant Deputy Warden, who was wet and grimy. They announced that the fire was under control.

The convicts are reported to have been found in small groups throughout four miles of inky corridors. They were all thoroughly cowed by the smoke. A cordon of guards, armed with machine-guns and rifles, was stationed facing the shaft with their guns trained on the spot where the rioters must emerge.

No concessions were made to the demands of the convicts—for a new prison doctor and better cooked food—according to members of the Prison Board, who congratulated the Warden on his efficiency.

MR. LAVERY TAKES HIS SEAT

At the start of public business in the Dail yesterday Mr. P. S. Doyle, United Ireland Party Whip, introduced to the Speaker Mr. Cecil Lavery, K.C., the newly-elected member for County Dublin. There was applause from the Opposition benches as Mr. Doyle conducted Mr. Lavery across the floor of the House to the Speaker, who shook hands with the new member.

Mr. Lavery then took his seat on the Opposition benches beside Mr. Bennett and Mr. Eamonn O'Neill, who shook hands with him warmly.

four minutes in arrear, and then took things easily. His machine ran perfectly throughout, and, except that his hands were numbed with cold, he was as fit when he finished as when he started.

Woods's success brings his total number of Tourist Trophy victories to seven. No other rider has won more than five, and his win makes Ireland's victories in these races fourteen.

Only ten riders finished, and all of them did so in times entitling them to miniature replicas of the Trophy. Apart from the Moto-Guzzi, the only foreign machine to finish was the German D.K.W. of Geiss, and that rider was the only overseas rider to complete the course.

M. Barrington, of Dublin, took W. L. Handley's place on the Excelsior, but did not complete the first lap, and C. W. Johnston, of Cork, fell out on the first circuit.

RACING CAR CRASH IN BELFAST

DRIVER SERIOUSLY INJURED

James Brown, a motor mechanic, is in the Royal Victoria Hospital, Belfast, in a serious condition as the result of injuries received yesterday when a racing car he was driving crashed near Glengormley.

The car belongs to W. R. Baird, the Tourist Trophy Race driver. It is hoped to repair it in time for Mr. Baird to drive it in the County Down Trophy Race on Saturday.

SHOOTING IN BELFAST

OUTBREAK IN NEW AREA

MEN DETAINED AFTER POLICE SEARCH

FROM OUR CORRESPONDENT.

BELFAST, Wednesday.

THE trouble in Belfast spread to a new area to-night, when shots were fired in California street, off the Old Lodge road, about a mile and a half from York street. This is a Nationalist quarter. All was quiet until about 11 o'clock to-night, when suddenly four revolver shots were heard. Police, hurrying to the scene, noticed a man with a revolver in his hand, and gave chase. After some little pursuit they caught up with and arrested him, but in the meanwhile he had thrown away his weapon. Crowds, attracted by the noise of the firing, ran to the spot; but police in armoured cars arrived, and, joined by others on foot, managed to disperse the crowd. No further incidents were reported.

There have been no further disturbances in the York street area since the Minister of Home Affairs early yesterday morning issued an order under the Special Powers Act prohibiting processions and the assembly of people in the city.

Early this morning the police made a series of searches in the disturbed area and detained a number of men—eight in all—who were taken to the police headquarters at Chichester street. It is understood that they will be held under the Northern Ireland (Special Powers) Act. Most of the men were in bed when the police called. They were told to dress, and were taken away in police vans.

During Tuesday night the whole district was patrolled by cage cars and armoured whippet cars, but no persons were seen congregating at street corners as on previous evenings.

No meetings are to be permitted at the Custom House square on Sunday next, but band parades of the Salvation Army and other religious organisations may be permitted under licence from the authorities.

A number of youths early this morning indulged in marauding expeditions, breaking the windows in houses, but they dispersed as soon as the police appeared.

"A FISHING PROBLEM"

MINISTRY DENIES THAT SHOTS WERE FIRED

The following statement was issued last evening by the Department of Justice:—

"The Irish Times, in an editorial today in reference to an incident off the coast of Donegal a few days ago, states: 'The Civic Guards, having fired some warning shots in order to make the poachers come ashore, were answered with a volley which compelled them to take cover at once.'

"There is no truth in the statement that the Civic Guards were answered with a volley and compelled to take cover at once.

"No shots were fired from the French trawlers."

[The statement which we published on Monday was printed in almost identical terms by the two other Dublin morning newspapers, as well as by the Cork Examiner. The Irish Press published the report under the heading "Poachers Fire on Gardai"; the Irish Independent spoke of a "Donegal Coast Fight," and the Cork Examiner caption read "Defiant Poaching Trawlers. Guards Forced to Shelter from Bullets." Our leading article was written on the basis of a dispatch from a correspondent whom we always have found to be trustworthy, and its object was solely to help the Free State Government in its efforts to cope with the poaching menace along the coasts. In the circumstances, the fact that the Department of Justice has singled out this newspaper for special mention in its démenti seems to call for some explanation.—Ed. I.T.]

FREE STATE AIR LINES

SERVICE TO BRITAIN NEXT MONTH

In the Dail last night Mr. Lemass, Minister for Industry and Commerce, stated that an experimental, but regular, air service between Great Britain and the Irish Free State would be started next month and continued through the winter in order to get the necessary technical information before the permanent regular air service between the Free State, Great Britain and continental countries could be begun.

"Next year," said the Minister, "we hope to have a permanent national air service established with suitable machines and equipment, which will commence operations to and from Great Britain internationally and in the Irish Free State, and ultimately from trans-Atlantic ports on the Western seaboard to continental countries."

The Department of Industry and Commerce, he added, had been keeping in close touch with the possibilities of trans-Atlantic services, and they were concerned to secure that if, and when, such services began the geographical position of the Irish Free State and the advantages which it offered would not be overlooked.

U.S. FLOOD MENACE

WHARTON (TEXAS), Wednesday.

About 1,000 persons have been driven from their houses by the rising Colorado river. Fifty houses are already inundated and scores of streets are submerged.

The flood waters of the Arkansas river have broken through the embankment at Neds Lake, near Fort Smith, flooding 15,000 acres of rich lowlands.

National guardsmen have been called out to patrol the Arkansas river embankments at Pine Bluff and assist 400 workmen in strengthening the dykes there.

FREE STATE'S NEW FACTORIES

MR. LEMASS'S REVIEW

DEVELOPMENT OF INDUSTRIES

RESUMING his speech on the estimate for the Department of Industry and Commerce, in the Dail yesterday, Mr. Lemass, Minister for Industry and Commerce, dwelt at length on the subject of industrial expansion in the Free State, and the development of old and new industries.

Mr. LEMASS said that the industrial development had been proceeding with considerable rapidity during the past couple of years. Most of the industries which had gone out of production during the previous regime had been restarted, and were now working to full capacity. The number of new factories established was sometimes taken as the index of development, but, in fact, the greater part of the progress to date had been in the development of existing industries. Flour milling was an old established industry, but during the period prior to 1932 a number of flour mills closed down, and in 1931, of the mills then in existence, most were only working to half capacity, and half of the country's requirements of flour were being imported. The development of flour milling was one of the first tasks undertaken.

Now there was at present sufficient flour milling capacity in the Saorstat mills to supply all the needs of the country. Two new mills were about to be started, and licences for an additional three had been promised and plans for their erection were being drawn up. When these were in production the flour milling capacity of the Saorstat would be substantially in excess of its requirements.

CLOTHING

Rapid progress had also been made in the apparel industry. In the hosiery industry 25 new factories had been established since 1932. The manufacture of sacks and bags of paper and cloth was becoming an important industry here, and seven new factories had been established for the manufacture of these commodities. The existing yeast firms were now in a position to supply all the country's needs of bakers' yeast.

The manufacture of furniture of various descriptions household and business furniture of wood and metal, had progressed rapidly since 1932. All the country's furniture requirements was now being supplied here.

In 1931 there was a very substantial importation of paints and varnish, and it was decided to develop these industries in the beginning. The previously existing concerns, few in number, had developed considerably, and in addition nine new factories had been established in various parts of the Saorstat.

The production of cardboard boxes and containers and cartons had also developed, and all classes of these commodities were now being made here. During the year the manufacture of cigarette cartons was initiated in three new factories. All the requirements of that industry were now being produced here, with the exception of cylindrical and wax containers. Boxes and containers of tin were also being manufactured in greatly increased quantities. The same was true of boxes and cases of wood. There was a widespread development all over the Saorstat of concerns for the manufacture of these commodities and other wooden articles.

Very many new saw mills had been established, and there was a remarkable increase in the production of factory-made joinery.

BOOTS AND SHOES

The development of the boot and shoe industry was one of their most difficult tasks. Skilled workers were required. In 1931 the Saorstat supplied 10 to 12 per cent. of its total requirement of boots and shoes. This year Saorstat firms would supply about 75 per cent. and next year 100 per cent. When these factories were in full production there would be no need to import any more boots or shoes.

A substantial number of new brick works had been established, and a number of concerns for the production of tiles from concrete were now in existence. There were fourteen new establishments engaged in the production of chemicals and cosmetics, and all classes of these goods were now being made here. The brush and broom industry developed considerably also.

One of the most important industries was the printing industry. The development of the industry had been sufficient to completely eliminate unemployment in the skilled printing trades, and a number of new concerns was established. He had been assured by experts that the colour printing of some firms here could not be equalled anywhere.

A couple of new concerns were now manufacturing buttons. Soap and candle imports had fallen to an insignificant proportion. A number of new factories had been established for the production of canned fruits, vegetables, meats and soups.

ARTIFICIAL SILK

Last year the issue of licences for the importation of knitted fabric was stopped because the factories were able to supply the present needs of the hosiery industry. There was no reason to anticipate that the development of the knitted fabric trade would not advance as fast as the hosiery industry. The production of woven fabrics was an old-established industry and that had also developed. At the present time there was a production sufficient to meet the country's requirements in linen, certain classes of cotton and in most classes of woollens. In due course it was hoped to secure the establishment of a factory for the manufacture of artificial silk.

The confectionery industry was now sufficient to secure that the full requirements of the country would be met.

Arising out of the housing programme it was decided to make a special effort to procure within the country a sufficient quantity of all grates, ranges and foundry goods of all kinds, including rain-water goods. There was still a not inconsiderable import of grates and ranges, which last year showed a slight tendency to increase, but production here had been rapidly developing. They also endeavoured to secure that the fabrication of steel work for constructional purposes would be established as an industry.

MARBLE

In 1932 their former famous industry in marble had almost entirely disappeared. They had been endeavouring to revive the industry, and in Connemara two marble quarries had been opened, and were in a position to fill orders. With the change of the incidence of the duty in the recent Budget they hoped to be able to procure the commencement of production in some of the other quarries in the country.

The production of polishes of all kinds was now being undertaken, sufficient to meet all the requirements of the country.

The manufacture of spades, forks and shovels and similar classes of agricultural implements had been undertaken, and a number of new concerns established in different parts of the country, and the full requirements for implements of this kind were being met.

The developments of the boot and shoe industry created the possibility of starting a number of other important industries. The first was the development of tanneries for the production of sole and insole leather. They were getting very near the point where it would be possible, with the establishment of a new tannery in the near future in the South-East corner of the country, and with the development of production in Limerick and elsewhere, and increased production in the new tannery at Portlaw, to close down imports of sole and insole leather.

The production of woollen and worsted ties created the possibility of producing in this country woollen and worsted yarns. Although a number of woollen mills were now spinning their own yarns there was still a big lot to be done before Irish woollens and worsteds would be 100 per cent. Irish.

QUARRIES

Exceptional measures had been taken to develop new quarries for the production of slates in different parts. They were not yet in a position to supply promptly all the slates required by house builders. There was still scope for development, because, in addition to the home market, there was an unlimited demand from other countries for Irish slates with their peculiar qualities.

A number of new concerns had been started for the production of ropes and cordage, and the production of binder twine would start this year.

The Minister said that he had been, so far, dealing only with industries which already had existed here, but other industries had been created, and they also had revived certain industries which had died out. They had commenced for the first time the manufacture of aluminium hollow-ware of all classes. Vegetable oils and oil cakes also had been undertaken.

The manufacture of suit cases, handbags, attaché cases, and similar other goods, from fibre, had been undertaken by a number of firms. A new factory at Portarlington was producing the fibre. The making of dry electric batteries had been undertaken by a couple of firms, and the full requirements of the country were now being supplied.

A number of firms had been induced to go into the business of assembling bicycles, and quite a substantial business has been built up. They had reached the stage when they could give more attention to the manufacture of parts of the bicycles in the country.

MOTOR CARS

The motor vehicle assembling industry was now established and quite important, giving employment to several hundred skilled adult workers, while the products were equal in quality and appearance to anything previously imported. Prices had not been increased, and in respect of certain classes of cars the price was lower than similar models that could be procured in Great Britain.

Mr. MINCH (U.I.P.) asked what models were cheaper.

The MINISTER said that most of the American models were cheaper.

He went on to say that a number of concerns had been established for the manufacture of bolts and nuts.

The glass bottle industry, which in 1931 appeared to be in a state of final collapse, had now been revived on a very substantial scale. All classes of bottles were now being produced at Ringsend, and a not unsubstantial export trade had been secured.

The manufacture of printing ink had been started, and also the making of shot gun cartridges in Galway, and he understood from the officials that only Irish-made cartridges would be used at the international clay-bird shooting competition.

A number of new factories had been established for the manufacture of metal windows —at Cork, Dublin and elsewhere.

RUBBER TYRES

The manufacture of electric cables had been undertaken at New Ross for the first time. Rubber tyres and tubes for motor cars, vehicles and bicycles had been undertaken at Cork. The manufacture of linen thread had commenced in Dublin. Two factories had been started for the manufacture of galvanised buckets and pails and similar goods. The manufacture of leather handbags and similar commodities in leather had been commenced. Paper book matches had been started for the first time in 1935, and the splints from which wooden matches were made had also been started.

The MINISTER said that he was not attempting to give anything like a full list—that would be obtained in the official directory of goods being made in the Saorstat and issued by the Department.

LOOKING AHEAD

Dealing with the developments anticipated in the coming year, the MINISTER said that a large scale factory for wire nails, screws and tools of various descriptions was being established at Limerick. A factory for cutlery was being constructed at Newbridge, and they anticipated that the erection of the cement factories would commence this year. It would probably be twelve or eighteen months before they would be completed, but in two years they would be producing their own cement.

A factory for the production of fire-clay goods was being established in County Leix. The manufacture of paper of all classes was being planned, and all the difficulties in the matter had been overcome. The construction of the factories would start this year.

An industry for the assembling of clocks and watches and the partial manufacture of clocks was an industry they hoped to develop this year. A factory for the manufacture of copper tubing was being started in Galway, and a factory for the manufacture of electric lamps was being erected at Bray. Bakelite and a factory for the manufacture of electric products of all kinds would also be established here this year. A factory for the manufacture of men's and women's hats of felt and straw would be established in Galway.

They hoped to commence the production of chrome tanned leather at Carrick-on-Suir. A number of other factories contemplated covering the full range of leathers required here for uppers and linings of shoes, and other purposes. The manufacture of rubber footwear—Wellingtons and Plimsolls—would be undertaken at Cork in six months' time, or, at any rate, to meet the requirements this year. They would also start with the waterproofing of fabrics.

A factory for the production of enamel hollow ware was starting at Tralee. They also hoped to start three factories for the production of washing soda at Dublin, Galway and Cork, and a factory for the manufacture of cotton thread was being constructed at Westport, and would shortly go into production.

PEAT BRIQUETTES

A very interesting development in Kildare would be a peat briquette making factory. This was a subject to which considerable attention had been devoted in many countries in the world. The British Government had spent five millions alone during the work in experiment, while the Danish Government had established a State factory for the purpose of experimenting with the process which was now being brought to fruition at Kildare. A company had been formed with a capital of £15,000, half of which was State guaranteed. If the industry should prove a success, it would be of tremendous importance to this country, as the factory could be duplicated not once or twice, but twenty times. They anticipated being able to find an export market for this product.

A factory for the manufacture of meat-meal and similar products was being established at Roscrea, and a factory at Kildare would undertake the manufacture of boot and shoe laces, and at Mullingar would be commenced the manufacture of lead pencils and similar classes of goods. They hoped to commence before the end of the year with the manufacture of sheet glass.

There was great scope for development in the silk stocking industry, which, as established at present, was supplying 900,000 pairs of stockings per annum, but the total requirements were 3,500,000 pairs.

EMPLOYMENT

Mr. Lemass then gave figures to show the condition of employment, and said that it was quite possible to have at the same time an increase in employment and an increase in unemployment, and particularly in this country, where they had a population increased by 56,000 since 1931. The figures revealed, however, that there was no such increases in unemployment, but that there was a decrease. That was proved by the number of persons claiming insurance benefit. It was proved in the proportion of the number of persons drawing benefit to the total number of persons in insurable employment. In March, 1931, the number of persons claiming unemployment insurance benefit was 6.9 per cent.; in 1932 7.3 per cent., in 1933 7.8 per cent., in 1934 it was 6.3, in 1935 it was 6.2 per cent.

INLAND TRANSPORT

The reorganisation of internal transport was now in full swing. At the present time attention was being drawn to certain hardships caused by the process of reorganisation to such an extent that people were inclined to overlook the actual situation. Previous to 1933 the transport condition in the country were properly described as chaotic. To remedy that the Government decided to create a new situation, in which cut-throat competition would be eliminated. One of the methods they could have adopted was nationalisation, and the other method was the 1933 Transport Bi . Already that bill was producing results and cut-throat competition was being eliminated. It was true that it meant a rise in fares and freight rates. Railway traffic receipts had been going up since then for the first time since 1929.

Mr. Lemass then referred to the question of a national air service linking up with Britain. This part of his speech is reported on page 7. Continuing, he said: Last year also he had referred to an Irish mercantile marine service. They were experiencing certain delays with regard to that matter. Their aim was to secure that 50 per cent. of the traffic from the Saorstat to Great Britain and Continental countries would be carried in Irish boats. They were making slower progress than they had hoped, but there were methods by which their aim could be secured if the present lines they had been working along proved unavailing.

Mr. NORTON (Lab., Kildare)—Will the Minister say what is the transport policy of the Government regarding transport in Dublin?

The MINISTER—It is not proposed to give any immediate change in the existing situation.

Mr. MORRISSEY (U.I.P., Tipperary)—Will the Minister give some indication of the steps taken by his department regarding working conditions and wages in the industries he has mentioned?

The MINISTER referred the deputy to the Conditions of Employment Bill, which will be discussed in the House next week.

TRADE PACTS

Proceeding, the Minister said that the principal trade agreements during the last year, excluding the Coal-Cattle Pact with Great Britain, were made with Germany, Belgium and Spain. The Pact with Belgium was merely a continuation of a previous agreement. The Pact with Germany had resulted in the first five months of this year in an increase of Saorstat exports to Germany from £56,000 to £205,000. The Pact with Spain had increased Saorstat exports to that country from £3,000 to £27,000.

Mr. BELTON (Independent, Dublin, North) —What classes of goods were exported to Germany?

The MINISTER—Cattle, butter, eggs, etc.

Professor J. M. O'SULLIVAN (U.I.P.) said that one of the great difficulties was to get information from the Minister. If there was one thing he had learned from the Minister it was that the one thing the unemployment figures did not do was give information about unemployment.

AFRAID

They had ample evidence in the last few weeks that business men in Dublin had been afraid to take an open part in politics on account of the licensing powers of the Government. He did not say that fear was justified, but there was not the slightest doubt that it existed.

The Government had gone three-quarters of the way towards State Socialism. Their only conception of helping industry was to interfere with it and control it.

Mr. T. DERRIG, Minister for Education, asked in what country was there not interference with industry by the Government.

Mr. B. MULCAHY (U.I., Dublin, N.) referred to what he described as the litany of achievements, which had been read by the Minister for Industry and Commerce five times in the past three years. In 1932 Fianna Fail said that 10,501 persons would be put into employment in the clothing industry. In the following year the Minister for Industry and Commerce said that several thousands of persons had been put into employment, and that they could shut down on imports of men's clothing. Actually the consumption of clothing fell by 20 per cent. between 1931 and 1933. The number of extra persons employed was only 2,500 in 1933, and the average earnings of the persons employed had fallen.

WAGES

They had the Minister for Education telling them that there had been a rise in the real value of wages, but if they compared the cost of living in Dublin and Belfast in regard to commodities in everyday use they would find that in Dublin sugar was from 1s. 1d. to 1s. 3d. per stone dearer than in Belfast, flour was 4d. a pound dearer in Dublin, butter was 5d. per pound more, and the 4lb. loaf was a penny dearer in Dublin, and the Minister would not persuade anybody who had set foot in the City of Belfast within the past year that such articles as boots, clothing or any of the common necessaries of life could be purchased more cheaply in Dublin than in Belfast.

The Minister must open his eyes to the fact that the consumption of the necessaries of life was going down, and that there was even a little dissipation in purchasing them, simply because they were in "a war atmosphere," and many people did not know where the next half-crown was coming from.

Would the Minister tell them how his industrial plan was going to provide for any of the 50,000 persons in the Western counties now in receipt of unemployment assistance? Surely it was bitter humbug to address such a statement of policy to people in their position. The Minister, he concluded, was facing not only social unrest, but industrial unrest, as the result of the people being unable to sustain the purchasing power they formerly had.

Mr. J. DILLON (U.I., Donegal) said that he welcomed the announcement of the Minister that he proposed to have an inquiry into the administration of licences and cognate matters.

He said that the Government had decided to grant a monopoly to two firms to manufacture linen thread in this country, and he wished to know if either of these had given an undertaking to produce thread from raw cotton, or were they simply going to bring in yarn under licence and finish it here? If that was so, the difference in price between 68s. per gross in Great Britain and 80s. here was monstrous.

Another factor that was seriously affecting a large number of Irish businessmen was the vacillation of the Minister with regard to the issue of licences.

It was, he said, a grave libel on the industrial life of this country to lump some of the model factories they had in this country with the new workshops in basements and back stables.

He wanted to know if the Trade Board had taken within its ambit the sack-making industry. Was the Minister prepared to tell the House what rate of wages was being paid to girls in the new sack factory in Athenry? Was it true to say that these girls were paid six shillings a week? Was a factory paying that rate of wages a desirable acquisition? It might be that the man who started the factory could not afford to pay more, but if that were the case, it was all the more reason why the factory should not have been started, and surely it was not the sort of industry which a Minister should have gone down with all the panoply of Government to start.

UNEMPLOYMENT PROBLEM

If the Minister for Industry and Commerce would face the unemployment problem with a wide spirit instead of by clipping chips off it here and there he could rest assured that his courage in making that attack on unemployment would get the Opposition's full support; but he thought that the Minister was a deplorable politician, while he admitted he was a buccaneer.

Mr. R. S. ANTHONY (Independent Labour, Cork City) said that there was delay in deciding claims for unemployment assistance. There was urgent need of an amending bill to expedite the dealing with claims.

Mr. P. BELTON (Independent, Dublin N.) was speaking when the debate was adjourned.

The House adjourned until 3 p.m. next Tuesday.

RAID ON A TRAIN

NEWSPAPERS BURNED

SIX MEN UNDER ARREST

FROM OUR CORRESPONDENT.

LONGFORD, Wednesday.

THE special morning newspaper train, carrying consignments of Irish newspapers from Dublin, was held up at 5.45 this morning a quarter of a mile on the Longford side of Dromod station.

A tree was placed across the rails, and when the train stopped two armed men came forward and confronted the guard and other officials on the train and demanded the parcels of the Irish Press. The guard refused, whereupon the men took possession of all the bundles (including those of the other morning papers) they could lay hands on, and sprinkling a bottle of petrol over them, set them on fire. The raiders then went away, and the train officials removed the obstruction from the line and the train was able to proceed.

ARRESTS

The hold up was reported at Dromod Civic Guard station, and within a quarter of an hour two men were placed under arrest.

Four men are also detained in connection with the attempted hold-up of the G.S.R. motor truck carrying papers on Monday morning.

KILDARE CHORAL FESTIVAL

BISHOP OF CASHEL ON WORSHIP

FROM OUR CORRESPONDENT.

KILDARE, Wednesday.

The annual Choral Festival Service of the Kildare and Glendalough Diocesan Union was held in St. Brigid's Cathedral, Kildare, to-day. A choir of over four hundred, with Canon Drury at the organ, sang a splendid selection of sacred music, the principal one being Sir John Goss's impressive anthem, "The Wilderness," in which Messrs. Martin, Marchant and Grace (of St. Patrick's Cathedral Choir, Dublin) were prominent in solo and trio. The music throughout was eminently fitting to the occasion, it being a very happy thought on the part of those responsible for the selection to include Sir Herbert Oakeley's beautiful "Evening and Morning," of which the choir gave a truly artistic interpretation.

The choirs taking part were:—Curragh, Carnalway, Newbridge, Naas, Clane, Timber, Dunlavin, Athy, Narraghmore, Kilmeague, Rathangan, Monasterevan, Carbury and Cashel.

The sermon was preached by the Bishop of Cashel (Dr. Harvey), his text being Psalm 95, verse 1. Worship, he said, was the epitome of religion, and it was concentrated in the two words, "Amen" and "Allelulia"—in other words, thanks and praise. The most perfect forms of worship were the worship of Nature and the worship of the Redeemer in heaven. The adoration of Nature is seen in surrender to the purpose for which it was adapted by its Creator. It is all Amen and Alleluia. Public worship is the outward expression of an inward impulse, and the variety of human nature demands that worship should contain equally varied elements. Our Services take it for granted that hearing is the only faculty that may be safely indulged.

Why is it that a note of music is permitted in our churches, but the aid of colour, of movement, or ceremony or symbolism is looked at askance? There is music in heaven (according to St. John), but there is also colour in the rainbow about the Throne. There is sound, but there is also silence. Were our Church to become the Church of Ireland in numbers as well as in name, what an extension of her worship would be required to meet the needs of those on the right and left. Worship should be of the self-sacrificing order. The Old Testament worshippers always feasted on the sacrifice which they had first offered. We offer no sacrifice, and so we enjoy no feast.

TAXES INCREASE

ROOSEVELT'S SURPRISE MESSAGE

FROM REUTER'S CORRESPONDENT.

WASHINGTON, Wednesday.

President Roosevelt, in his special surprise message to Congress this evening, requested a general increase in taxes, especially on very large personal incomes; imposts on the larger inheritances and on gifts, and a higher schedule for corporate income taxes.

The President proposed a graduated income tax on corporations, starting at 10½ per cent. and rising to 16⅔ per cent., in lieu of the present flat rate of 13⅓ per cent.

ARMY WEEK DANCE

FROM OUR CORRESPONDENT.

NAAS, Wednesday.

The Army Week Dance at the Curragh, County Kildare, to-night, was a gay and successful function. Over 300 people danced until an early hour.

The company included:—Colonel and Mrs. McCorley, Commandant and Mrs. Wedick, Commandant and Mrs. Fox, Captain and Mrs. McNally, Captain and Mrs. Higgins, Captain and Mrs. Luby, Mr. E. Parkinson, Captain Kelly, Captain Wall, Captain and Mrs. Prendergast, Captain Hogan, Captain and Mrs. Horgan, Captain and Mrs. McInerney, Miss Matthews, Captain and Mrs. Gribben, Mr. J. Dowling, Miss O'Rourke, Lieutenant Smith, Mr. and Miss O'Leary, Captain and Mrs. Dineen, Captain Duane, Lieutenant Quigley, the Misses Brannon, Lieutenant Bell, Miss Davis, Miss Sheridan, Mr. T. Pallin, Miss Neason, Miss Hughes, Captain and Mrs. Tommon, the Misses Daly, Mr. and Miss Flood, Mr. and the Misses Ryan, Mr. J. Stafford, Miss Hackett, Captain Smith, Mr. R. Roger, Miss Dunne, Miss Doyle, Captain and Mrs. Kenny, Mr. Cunningham and Mr. and Mrs. Kenny.

Sir Alan Garrett Anderson, a director of the Bank of England, was chosen yesterday by the City of London Conservative Association as Conservative candidate in the by-election in the city, caused by the elevation to the peerage of Mr. E. C. Grenfell. Mr. Grenfell has been one of the two Conservative members for the city since 1922, and was returned unopposed at the general election in 1931.

files of any Government department, but he invited any deputy in the House to examine the full files relating to the matter (he had the file before him in the House), and he would satisfy himself that Deputy McGilligan's charges were without foundation.

"CONDITIONS OF SECRECY"

MR. McGILLIGAN'S CHARGE

Mr. McGILLIGAN (U.I.P., National University) moved that the estimate be referred back. He said that there were a number of interesting things to be discussed—unemployment, wages and so on. There had been the Dublin tramway strike, but he did not intend to handle that now to add to the heavy weight of the debate over the misdeeds of the Minister. He would deal with that in the transport section.

Mr LEMASS said that that would have to be dealt with under the present estimate.

Mr. McGILLIGAN, continuing, said that the best discussion possible to have in that House was the mining concession in Wicklow, mainly because of the scandal that was associated with the granting of the concession. In that connection he suggested to the Minister that if privilege existed in the House it was for the special purpose of enabling deputies to raise matters such as that, or any matters that warranted open discussion, and the letting out of disordered matters from a wound or an abscess that had grown under a particular Administration. There was a great deal of matter to be let out in that particular case.

WORTH £17,000,000

If the Minister wanted him to formulate charges he would do it immediately. Did the Minister handle State property in such a way that he gave what the concessionaires believed to be valuable State property worth £17,000,000; that he gave that definitely to two political friends of his under conditions of secrecy; for if the lease was for over two years—for two years and a day—it would have to be laid on the table of the House. It was given under conditions of secrecy, because the term was for under two years.

Mr. LEMASS—Nonsense.

Mr. McGILLIGAN read the Section of the Mines and Minerals Act.

Mr. LEMASS said that the lease could not be longer. It was a prospecting lease.

Mr. McGILLIGAN—So that was the necessity for it?

THE CONCESSION

Continuing, he said that the handing over of the concession under conditions of secrecy was a far more scandalous thing than standing over the granting of the lease. The Minister had discovered that the people who had got the concession were likely to make a big sum of money out of it, and he had the power given under the lease to "void" the whole thing. If there was such a valuable State property, and it could be worked, there should be a conjunction between that property and the people who were going to work it. There was a Labour philosophy on middlemen's profits. He agreed that that philosophy was sound, but here they had the profits of lazy middlemen. The concession proposed to give part of the County Wicklow to these two people, but they would not work it, but would get certain other people to work it. It would not be under Government control. From merely bringing the workers and the property together they were to get £12,000 and two and a quarter per cent. dividend on anything produced.

There was a music-hall tune "Don't go down the mine daddy, but let the mine come up to you." There never was such an example of a mine coming up—and a gold mine.

CONTRACT DOCUMENT

The two people who were to get that were members of the Fianna Fail Party, and it was a scandalous fact that one was a deputy of that House, and the other the Vice-Chairman of the Senate. Added to that scandal was the further scandal that the contract document was drawn up on Senate notepaper. The employment to be given was to four able-bodied miners, and the constant employment of four others; four able-bodied miners for the first two years and the other four for the remainder of the time. The concession gave 982 acres in County Wicklow. There were two other items of consideration also to be granted by the Government. These two gentlemen agreed to pass over whatever rights they obtained in the 982 acres of land, and to do everything in their power to obtain further leases and hand them over—that was 2,000 extra acres in Wicklow and the whole foreshore of Arklow. The rent to be paid to the Government was £5, with royalties of one twenty-fifth, and the new company guaranteed that they would work and occupy the mine, and they would pay to the deputy and the senator two and a quarter per cent. dividend, along with 48,000 five-shilling shares in an £80,000 company which was to be floated. Deputy Briscoe had crossed to London to get Riseberget, of Maddock street, Hanover square, to take over the property.

Mr. BRISCOE—That is not true.

Mr. McGILLIGAN—To take over your obligations in connection with the mines and to pay the deputy 48,000 five-shilling shares in the company.

"A BUNCH OF LIES"

Mr. BRISCOE—That is your case—a bunch of lies.

Mr. McGILLIGAN—Two people representing the deputy crossed to London.

Mr. BRISCOE—That is not true. These people came over here and approached us. These are their proposals and not ours.

Mr. McGILLIGAN, continuing, said that there was something about a bond for £500 which had been handed over and guarantees about employing people. "Let us," said Mr. McGilligan, "not have so much verbiage about this thing. Does this House consider that it is a proper thing in relation to the sale of Government property that certain people should get concessions, and that these certain people should at any rate later, to the knowledge of the Minister, have sold that very valuable consideration for themselves, but with no increased consideration to the State?"

Continuing, he said that the firm already had made application and had shown that they were anxious to work the property. They had certain skill, finance and mechanical equipment. The Minister told the House that they had met with financial difficulties, or some of them had, but it was the group on which Deputy Briscoe and his friend finally descended. Very early on these people had made application, and that application had been registered, as every application was, but they did not respond. They were somewhere in the background, and they were very easily found out by Deputy Briscoe. He thought that added to the scandal; for they had been known to be making inquiries, and it was known also that they had finance, equipment and technical skill behind them.

MINISTER FOR FINANCE

Mr. McGILLIGAN went on to say that the Minister for Finance had denied that he had any responsibility in the matter, but the lease granted was in the name of the Minister for Industry and Commerce in the first part, and the name of the Minister for Finance in the second part, and what mess the Minister for Industry and Commerce was in the Minister was in the mess also—and in it up to the neck. The Minister for Finance had said that he would not interfere with the Minister for Industry and Commerce except in the case of a very bad scandal. Did the Minister for Finance consider that he was getting the best rent possible? He did not get the best rent. These two people were to get two and a quarter per cent dividends and the Minister's demand was one twenty-fifth. There was a great show made of adding £25,000 to the country's four millions wages bill in twenty-one industries, but these two gentlemen were getting more than half of that increase for doing nothing.

Mr. BRISCOE—We were digging for four years down in Wicklow.

Mr. McGILLIGAN — Digging political graves.

Mr. LEMASS, intervening, said that there was no such lease.

Mr. McGILLIGAN—We were told that an application was at present under consideration. That had been made in a statement issued by the Department of Industry and Commerce last Saturday.

Mr. LEMASS—That is not correct.

RUSHED INTO PRINT

Mr. McGILLIGAN—But the Minister rushed into print to say that there was something under consideration, and, in fact, there is not.

Mr. LEMASS—It was incorrectly stated on Saturday that application had been made. No application, in fact, has been made.

Mr. McGILLIGAN — And, though the Minister made a wrong statement, he proceeded to found a little theory on it? He went on to say that the Minister had told them that the lease had contained a clause that there should be no sub-letting without his consent. The Minister had knowledge of an agreement. Had the Minister indicated to these two gentlemen that he would not favour that sub-lease.

Mr. LEMASS—No.

Mr. McGILLIGAN—So the Minister is prepared to consider an arrangement under which these two people will get the gold for themselves.

The MINISTER—On the contrary, I was asked by a firm—Somerfield, Smith and Noonan—if I was prepared to agree to such a thing, that such sub-lease would be made, and I refused to give it.

Mr. McGILLIGAN—So that we are to draw the conclusion that these two people—members of the Oireachtas—were to get £12,000 and two and a quarter per cent. dividend. Does that shock the Minister? We would like an answer.

Did the Minister think that these two people had put sufficient work into this business to warrant their getting £12,000 at two and a quarter per cent.? What value was the State getting for it? He suggested that there was no other person in that House who would not be shocked into an immediate answer by way of repudiation of such a thing except the Minister himself.

RIDICULOUS

Mr. LEMASS—The statement is ridiculous that they are getting £12,000 at all.

Mr. McGILLIGAN—Forty-eight thousand five shillings fully-paid up shares. Isn't that £12,000? Is the Minister accusing Deputy Briscoe of being a share-pusher, or has the deputy been got at by a share-pusher?

Mr. BRISCOE—The deputy knows full well that I refused cash.

Mr. McGILLIGAN—Supposing people float a company and ask others to subscribe to this £80,000 company, and talked of the lease that had been granted, and the public were fooled into subscribing to the shares that were, say, only worth a penny——

Mr. BRISCOE—That was precluded under the agreement.

Mr. McGILLIGAN—I ask to have that pointed out to me in this agreement. What paragraph is it in?

Mr. BRISCOE—Read the whole agreement.

Mr. McGILLIGAN—I think that is the clearest evasion.

The MINISTER FOR FINANCE—Does the deputy deny that sale is precluded under the agreement?

Mr. McGILLIGAN—I cannot find it.

The MINISTER FOR INDUSTRY AND COMMERCE (addressing the Chair)—I want to raise the relevancy of this discussion. Everything I have done, as Minister for Industry and Commerce or otherwise, I am prepared to answer for here. But the particular document which Deputy McGilligan is now reading is one with which I have nothing whatever to do, and of which I have not even been asked to approve.

SPEAKER INTERVENES

The SPEAKER—The Minister said that there was no sub-letting. His word must be taken by the Chair on that matter. Regarding the document which the deputy is quoting from, I have no knowledge of whether it is a document of any concern to the Minister.

Mr. LEMASS—Further, there has been no application for my consent to a sub-letting.

Mr. McGILLIGAN went on to say that the Minister had in his possession an agreement, signed and sealed by the deputy and the Senator, agreeing to sub-let.

Mr. BRISCOE—That is not true. The deputy knows full well that is absolutely dishonest. There is a clause in the agreement which specifically says that anything done under it must first have the sanction of the Minister.

The SPEAKER—I do not know whether the deputy purports to discuss the conduct of the Vice-Chairman of the Senate and Deputy Briscoe, or the Minister. The Minister has assured the House that there is no sub-lease, and until he sanctions such a sub-lease he cannot be held responsible for the terms of it.

Mr. LEMASS—I am prepared to put this to the deputy: That, with the consent of the House, we will adopt a resolution of the House to set up a special committee to consider these allegations.

A SCENE

Mr. McGILLIGAN—The Minister said here to-day that his administration was open to examination by anyone in this House, and I suggest that such a committee ought also to consider the granting of licences in relation to cattle, flour and thread—to name only three things.

Mr. LEMASS—The deputy has made a number of groundless allegations. Is he prepared to back them before a Select Committee?

Mr. McGILLIGAN—I am prepared to discuss them first here, so that we shall know what we are referring to the Committee. The Minister says, in flat defiance of the document, that there is no sub-lease.

Mr. LEMASS—No sub-lease can be made without my consent.

Mr. McGILLIGAN was about to proceed when there were cries of "Chair, chair!" whereat Mr. McGilligan, addressing the Minister, said, "You want this discussion squashed."

Mr. LEMASS—"I want this discussion confined to what I have done as Minister for Industry and Commerce." He added that he was prepared to meet Deputy McGilligan and all his allegations by proposing a resolution that a Select Committee of seven deputies be set up to consider the allegations in relation to this mining lease which the deputy had made, and that the Committee be asked to consider the matter and furnish a report to the Dáil.

Mr. McGILLIGAN—I will take that, but the Minister said that his administration is open to investigation by anyone in this House. Is the Minister running away from that?

TERMS OF REFERENCE

Mr. LEMASS—No. The method of investigation will be by a Select Committee.

Mr. McGILLIGAN said that he would like to have the terms of reference enlarged.

Mr. LEMASS—I will not agree.

Mr. COONEY (F.F., Dublin, N.)—Make another charge.

Mr. McGILLIGAN—I have documents here about a few other things if you like.

Mr. KELLY (F.F., Dublin, S.)—Cough up everything you have.

Mr. McGILLIGAN—Well, there is, apparently, one honest man ready to have this Committee inquire into everything.

Mr. KELLY—There are more honest men than one here.

Mr. McGILLIGAN—They do not sit on the front bench. Why not give this Committee power to investigate other things on a prima facie case which satisfies the Committee?

Mr. LEMASS—You will stick to this one matter or get off it altogether.

Mr. McGILLIGAN—Let us frame terms of reference. Take all to a special Committee or nothing.

Mr. LEMASS—I have offered you a special Committee, and you do not want it.

Mr. McGILLIGAN—I will accept that. It will be a good day's work when we get it.

INTERRUPTIONS

Following interruptions from the Government benches, Mr. McGILLIGAN said that if there was going to be any reflection on him he would want the terms of reference enlarged.

The SPEAKER—The matter of the special committee and its terms of reference are quite irrelevant now.

Mr. McGILLIGAN—So now we are going to get a motion, which the Minister will introduce, setting up a special committee carrying on its proceedings in public, and with power to send for documents and papers.

"UNITED NORTH AND SOUTH"

NON-SUBSCRIBING PRESBYTERIANS

ELECTION OF NEW MODERATOR

FROM OUR CORRESPONDENT.

BELFAST, Wednesday.

The Rev. Dr. A. L. Agnew, who was elected to-day Moderator of the Non-Subscribing Presbyterian Church in Ireland, addressing the annual meeting in Belfast, said that the present was a time when they should guard well their liberties.

The new Moderator went on to speak of the position of their churches in Ireland, and said that they were glad to know now that they were united from North to South by the inclusion of the Synod of Munster. (Applause.)

THE MUNSTER SYNOD

On the proposition of Mr. John Begg (Larne), seconded by Mr. D. J. Williams, a resolution was passed unanimously welcoming the Synod of Munster into the fellowship of the Non-Subscribing Presbyterian Church in the hope that this would be for mutual welfare and strength.

The Rev. E. Savell Hicks (Dublin) spoke expressing the pleasure with which all in the South regarded the union which had just taken place. He expressed the hope that this union would operate for added strength and prosperity.

POSITION IN GERMANY

The Rev. R. Nicol Cross, M.A., moved: "This Synod, in the name of the sacred cause of civil and religious liberty to which it is traditionally and unalterably committed, expresses its detestation of all racial and religious persecution and political tyranny.

"It records its admiration for the group of pastors suffering in Germany to-day for their loyalty to the Christian faith and the spiritual freedom of the Church; and it prays that they may remain steadfast and immovable, and, under the Providence of God, win a victory for ideals which are vital to the whole of Christendom."

The Rev. John McCleery (Raloo) seconded the resolution, which was passed.

INTERNATIONAL PEACE

The Rev. R. Nicol Cross moved a resolution reaffirming belief in international peace and goodwill as a fundamental Christian principle, and in the League of Nations as the instrument by which collective security should be guaranteed against lawless aggression.

He said that they saw that in Ulster the Government wanted to disarm individual members of the community in order that the whole community might enjoy a sense of security. The same principle applied between the States of the world in general.

The Rev. John McCleery seconded the motion, which was passed.

KING AGAIN IN GREECE?

PLEBISCITE ON OCTOBER 15TH

FROM REUTER'S CORRESPONDENT.

ATHENS, Wednesday.

When the National Assembly meets on July 1st the Greek Government will ask for authority to hold a plebiscite on October 15th on the question of the restoration of the monarchy.

Many Government deputies have signed a protocol, according to this evening's papers, which will be submitted to the Assembly, demanding the immediate return of King George without resort to a plebiscite, and also the re-burial in Greece of the remains of King Constantine.

The Government's reply is that this also is only possible after a plebiscite has been held.

THREE MEN STRIKE

AND LINER IS HELD UP

FROM REUTER'S CORRESPONDENT.

NEW YORK, Wednesday.

The liner Manhattan, which was scheduled to leave at noon with 1,089 passengers, did not sail on account of a last-minute strike of her three wireless operators.

The operators are pressing for the engagement of two additional operators, and also for a wage increase. Officials of the United States Lines, who are the owners of the vessel, are trying to recruit other operators to replace the strikers.

FOR YOUR CHILD

What Is Your Child's Health Worth to You?

When it comes to choosing medicine for your child, nothing but the best is good enough. A child's health is priceless and a wise mother will not dream of taking chances—she will never gamble with 'cheap' untried preparations.

And so when her child suffers from one of those inevitable stomach 'upsets' she turns in complete confidence to 'Milk of Magnesia.'

Doctors the world over prescribe 'Milk of Magnesia' for children's stomach ailments and to keep the bowels regular. It is wonderfully effective yet entirely harmless even to the youngest babe. Next time your child is out of sorts, listless, has stomach-ache, colic or constipation, give 'Milk of Magnesia.' You will be delighted with the quick comfort it gives; sweetening the sour stomach and relieving the bowels.

Always remember it is absolutely safe and there is nothing 'just as good.'

1/3 per bottle. 2/6 treble size.

Also 'MILK OF MAGNESIA' brand TABLETS. Mint flavoured. Children take them eagerly. 1/- per box—also family size bottle 2/-; of all chemists.

'MILK OF MAGNESIA'

'Milk of Magnesia' is the trade mark of Phillips' preparation of Magnesia

HOUSE OF LORDS APPEAL

DECISION OF DONEGAL MILK VENDORS

FROM OUR CORRESPONDENT.

LONDONDERRY, Wednesday.

Donegal farmers, who supply milk to Londonderry, again met to-day in the city and decided to direct legal representatives to appeal to the House of Lords against the decision of the Northern Court of Appeal involving the refusal of licences to them to sell milk in Londonderry under the new Milk Act. There was a score of vendors present.

It is possible that the Northern Ministry may prosecute Donegal vendors before the appeal is heard.

Form Completely Upset in the Royal Hunt Cup at Ascot

PRIOK WINS BIG RACE AT 66 TO 1

The Supreme Test for Brantome in Gold Cup To-day

FROM OUR TRAVELLING CORRESPONDENT.

ASCOT, Wednesday Night.

SOME sympathy can be expressed with the man who threw his racecard in the ditch this evening and said that Ascot ought to be burned. It was a melancholy Ascot this afternoon, when a 66 to 1 chance—Mr. Barnard Hankey's Priok, a French four-year-old gelding, trained by Percy Whitaker—won the Royal Hunt Cup by a length and half a length from Scattercash and Llanarmon, and not one of the first fifteen favourites in the first three. This was the realisation of a bookmaker's dream of paradise.

There was one bright spot. The weather was delightful until a shower began just before the last race.

Magnificent Spectacle

There was a field of 37, a record for the Hunt Cup, and, with the exception of Dignitary, all the fancied horses were badly drawn.

To be drawn on the far side in such a field is a heavy disadvantage, and it told. Actually the favourite, Law Maker, was drawn fifth from the far side, and Shining Tor was two outside of him.

The spectacle was magnificent as the great field came over the crest of the hill, but that was the only thing that was magnificent about the race.

The could see, first of all, Dignitary well away and holding at that time an excellent chance, but it was not a great length of time before he disappeared.

We sought in vain for Law Maker, and, after seeing Mesa in a bunch, she only caught the eye again running on when it was too late. We searched for many others, and could see Almond Hill getting in and out of difficulties.

The Unexpected

The two quite unexpected things we did see were, first of all, an unknown one, Abaris, in front, and then, three furlongs from home, another unknown one, Priok, drawing away clear. The apprentice boy, Middleton, seemed a little in trouble about keeping his place, and the horse was going right and left, not zig-zagging, perhaps, so much as in the famous case of Dark Ronald when he won this race, but still keeping anything but a straight course.

Then we could see Scattercash working out of the ruck and coming with a good run, which was all too late. Llanarmon we could see running well; but the unknown one had the race in hand, and it was all over.

Funny things happen in racing. This winner had run in a modest race at Wolverhampton only last week. I believe he was well gambled on at S.P then, but he never saw the way Faites Vos Jeux went then, and the latter was not started here, because he is not in the same street as Guinea Gap, and the latter I never saw in to-day's race.

Beyond mentioning that Shining Tor, ploughing a lonely furrow on the far side of the course, finished upsides with the placed horses, and showed himself a good colt, I will dismiss this unfortunate incident in the history of racing.

One was glad to see his trainer win an important race. Whitaker bought the colt, who is by Asterus, also a winner of this race, when a French owner, M. Leon Volterra, brought him to Newmarket last year, had him cut, and has made him a winner of the Hunt Cup. His owner is a young man, who has only been racing, and that on a limited scale, for a short time.

Umidwar Beaten

I will continue with the unpleasant features of to-day's racing. Umidwar, an odds-on chance for the Churchill Stakes, finished last, so the Aga Khan's luck does not appear to be in this year. The race was easily won by a horse from France, M. Boussac's Denver II., who beat Enfield a length and a half. His owner was so pleased that he is challenging Brantome with him to-morrow.

Golden Martlet, a hot favourite for the Chesham Stakes, was unplaced and ran badly. Evidently he had not recovered completely from the ailment which stopped him running a fortnight ago. This race was easily won by Mr. Hornung's Pike Barn, who beat Monmouth, and a nice French colt, Abjer, by a length and a half and a short head.

Ankaret Scores

Coronal, who started favourite for the Coronation Stakes, finished third. She never had a chance against Ankaret, second in the Oaks, who made a strong pace, and won easily from Clerestory and the favourite. A good filly this daughter of Blandford, who may have been unlucky to have lost by inches to Quashed at Epsom.

Sir Thomas Dixon's Irish colt, Cariff, a 10 to 1 chance, was an easy winner of the last race, the Bessborough Stakes, from two other outsiders, Rock Star and The Font.

The most pleasant feature of the day was when Lord Astor's Field Trial walked away with the King Edward VII. Stakes. This is a rapidly improving colt whom we shall have to take note of at Doncaster in September.

Knighted, ridden by Gordon Richards, started favourite for the Pera Hill Stakes, which he won for the second time and won cleverly from Kingsem and Apollo. He and Field Trial were the only two successful favourites.

The crowd was immense and the tote takings nearly £105,000.

Brantome's Test

What is to beat the unbeaten French colt, Brantome, in the Gold Cup to-morrow? The plan of campaign is that Bright Bird shall make a cracking pace for Tiberius, and that by so doing any weak spot there may be in Brantome will be found out. The French colt is very well and has been pleasing in his work, and his connections will not hear of his being beaten. Lawson thinks he will beat him with Tiberius. I leave it at that.

EASTON will win the Ribblesdale Stakes and WINDSOR LAD the Rous Memorial Stakes, though Pampas Grass, receiving 25lb., is a smart miler.

In the New Stakes I choose VANBRUGH, while SEA BEQUEST should win the Waterford Stakes and THE DIVOT the Cork and Orrery Stakes.

For the Curragh

I understand that Fairbairn definitely runs for the Irish Derby and that Solerina is to contest the Irish Oaks next month.

GALTEE MORE.

IRISH DERBY PLANS

M. D. Peacock, the Middleham trainer, has ordered a horse-box for the Curragh races next week. Presumably this is for Sir T. Dixon's Listoi, who is engaged in the Irish Derby, to be run on Wednesday.

Sir Percy Loraine's Coup de Roi is a likely runner, while it is the intention of J. T. Rogers to run his five candidates—Smokeless, Chirgwin, African Lily, Parisian, and Museum.

BRANTOME FOR GOLD CUP

Bellacose Napped for the Granville Stakes

BRANTOME, the best horse on the Continent this century, will find the English opposition in the Gold Cup to-day woefully weak. Felicitation (winner last year), Windsor Lad and Tai Yang could have been the best against him, but all have been withdrawn for various reasons, and the main hope of England is Tiberius. His best classic form was a second to Windsor Lad in the St. Leger. He won two races after that last year. At Newmarket this year he was well beaten by Tai Yang, but won later at Kempton Park from Alcazar and others.

Although it is useful form it is some way from being as good as that of Brantome, who won the French Two Thousand Guineas, the Prix Royal Oak (French St. Leger) and the Prix de l'Arc de Triomphe last year. Like Babram, he is unbeaten. Brantome is none the worse for his recent escapade, when he broke loose from a stable boy and galloped off into Chantilly forest.

In the field will also be Caymanas, winner of the Royal Hunt Cup last year. It will be interesting to see how he does over this much longer journey. No one expects him to give 4lb. successfully to the French horse. Alcazar should not reverse the form with Tiberius.

Denver II., a compatriot of Brantome, and winner of the Churchill Stakes yesterday, is to run again. It seems to be becoming a matter of course for Churchill Stakes winners to try to make a double with the Gold Cup.

Felicitation was successful in the attempt last year. I do not think Denver II. will be.

should beat him and the rest.

Favourite backers will have to lay odds on in several cases.

EASTON

is likely to be at a short price for the Ribblesdale Stakes. Although he has the heavy weight of 9st. 12lb., the opposition to him is not very strong.

BELLACOSE

won easily at Newmarket. I can see nothing better in the Granville Stakes.

The Rous Memorial Stakes may be only a match between Windsor Lad and Pampas Grass. The gradual diminution of the field for this race can be traced only to the outstanding superiority of WINDSOR LAD.

He should not be troubled by his solitary opponent.

The New Stakes is the most open race of the day. I give preference over Vanbrugh and Tetrazone.

MAHMOUD

SEA BEQUEST

ran well for a mile in the Derby, and on that form should win the Waterford Stakes.

WINANDERMERE

may win the Cork and Orrery Stakes if saved for it. The Divot is the alternative.

NEWMARKET HINTS FOR TO-DAY

Alcazar will oppose Brantome in the Gold Cup at Ascot to-day, but without much hope of beating the French "crack."

BELLACOSE,

if seen out for the Granville Stakes, should win.

Frank Butters will saddle Grand Duke and Mahmoud for the New Stakes, and both have been well galloped. J. Jarvis will be doubly represented by Blue Train and Tetrazone, and I have a decided fancy for the latter. Reproof ran well at Manchester last week, and should beat the newcomers, Bultoi and Richmond Gem, but I shall plump for TETRAZONE (nap).

His stable companion,

SEA BEQUEST (next best),

should prove difficult to beat for the Waterford Stakes.

RECORD TOTE TURNOVER AT ASCOT

The Tote had a record turnover at Ascot yesterday. In addition to the takings on the Royal Hunt Cup constituting a record, the total aggregate was the greatest ever registered for a day's racing in England.

The turnover was £104,891 6s., made up as follows: Win pools, £56,860 12s.; place pools, £43,472 14s.; daily double, £4,558. The previous record day's turnover was £93,395 8s. on Royal Hunt Cup day last year.

SPORTING GOSSIP

Joe Canty Ill

An epidemic of influenza has depleted the staffs of many of the stables at the Curragh. Joe Canty, the jockey, is one of the victims.

Mr. T. A. Fleming's Condition

Mr. T. A. Fleming, the Irish racing official, had a serious operation on Monday. He was reported yesterday to be going on as well as could be expected.

Mishap to Trainer

W. Higgs, the racehorse trainer, met with a minor accident at Ascot races yesterday. He was struck by the radiator of a motor car. After receiving first aid he was taken to his home at Blewbury, near Didcot, suffering from shock.

Coppelia Throws Jockey

G. Nicoll, the jockey, was thrown at Ascot yesterday when his mount, Coppelia, whipped round at the start of the Coronation Stakes. Nicoll was not hurt, and Coppelia galloped the course riderless. There was a delay of nine minutes in the start of the race owing to Caretta twisting a plate, which had to be removed.

Sandra II.'s Ascot Race

Sandra II. will not run in the Cork and Orrery Stakes at Ascot to-day. She is being held in reserve for the King's Stand Stakes to-morrow.

Racehorse for India

Bekorah, a three-year-old, has left Cottrill's Lambourne stables for shipment to India.

MORE RAIN IN ENGLAND

Lancashire's Weak Opening Against Tourists

Only an hour and three-quarters' play was possible at Aigburth in the South Africans' second match with Lancashire. Rain prevented a start being made before lunch, and shortly before four o'clock a heavy and continuous downpour brought the brief, but interesting, day's play to an end.

Lancashire, who included both Duckworth and Farrimond in their eleven—Duckworth will keep wicket—scored 49 runs for the first wicket after Watson had been missed by Nourse at fine leg, but five other batsmen left in the space of fifty minutes for 25 runs. Hopwood, fourth out at 81, batted attractively for eighty-five minutes, and was the only batsman who mastered the attack sufficiently to force the ball over the dead outfield.

Iddon was missed by Nourse in the slips before he scored. Watson was out to a false hit the first time he had really a forcing shot. Paynter fell to an exceptional catch at fine leg by Langton, and Washbrook and Lister left to catches at the wicket in playing forward. All six wickets fell to catches.

NO PLAY AT THE OVAL

Owing to rain there was no play yesterday in the match between Surrey and Cambridge University at the Oval.

RAIN-SPOILED MATCH AT RATHMINES

The second match of Mr. M. K. Foster's tour, that against Leinster yesterday at Rathmines, was spoiled by the weather. Owing to heavy rain in the morning only twenty minutes' play was possible before lunch, and so wet was the wicket that no further play was possible until five o'clock. The captains then decided to play three hours, each side batting for an hour and a half. In that time the visitors completed an innings for 154, and Leinster replied with 128 for 8 wickets. H. C. Edwards played a bright innings of 72 for Foster's XI., and H. P. Duffy and N. H. Lambert scored freely for Leinster. Score:—

GOLF

ALLISS BREAKS A WORLD RECORD

REMARKABLE FINISH AT GLENEAGLES

Percy Alliss (Beaconsfield), the British Ryder Cup player, who has been in the forefront of professional golf since his return from a Berlin appointment, accomplished the greatest performance of his career at Gleneagles Hotel course, Perthshire, yesterday, when he won the inaugural Scottish Open Golf Championship with an aggregate of 275 for 72 holes.

Not only was his final round of 66 one stroke better than the course record, but his final total was also one stroke better than the world record for a 72 holes championship.

There had been a spate of sixty-sevens, which equalled a two years old record held by Rowland Jones, and when James Busson returned with a fourth round of 68 for 277 Alliss needed a 69 to win. He eclipsed all expectations by coming in with that brilliant 66, doing each half in 33 for a score that was 10 under bogey.

BUSSON SECOND

Busson had to be content with second place, four shots behind Alliss. Apart from a first round of 72, his scores were remarkably consistent and steady.

The world record, which Alliss shattered, was held jointly by Emmett French, who won the Ohio Open Championship at Youngstown Country Club, and R. A. Cruickshank, who was successful in the Colorado Open Championship, each with a total of 274.

The quality of Alliss's performance can be estimated by comparison with the open championship record of 283, held by Henry Cotton and Gene Sarazen.

Alliss's figures for his last record round were:—

Out—4 4 4 4 3 3 4 3 4—33

In —4 3 4 4 3 4 3 4 4—33. Total, 66.

Alliss's approach work was so accurate that on fourteen of the greens he left himself with only a foot putt. Only once did he have a long putt, and then he holed a sixyarder for his three at the sixth. Alliss made only one bad shot. He was bunkered at the fifteenth, but his approach was laid within a yard of the hole and he got down in 4.

THE WIMBLEDON DRAW

No Perry-Crawford Final this Year—Britain's "Teams"

FIVE British singles players have been "seeded" in the draw for the championships at Wimbledon, which was made yesterday at the All England Club. The "seeded" players in the singles events are:—

Men—F. J. Perry (Great Britain) (holder), G. von Cramm (Germany), J. H. Crawford (Australia), H. W. Austin (Great Britain), Wilmer Allison (America), S. B. Wood (America), R. Menzel (Czechoslovakia), C. Boussus (France).

Women—Miss D. R. Round (Great Britain) (holder), Mrs. H. Sperling (Denmark), Miss Helen Jacobs (America), Mrs. F. S. Moody (America), Mrs. A. Mathieu (France), Miss K. Stammers (Great Britain), Miss M. C. Scriven (Great Britain), Miss Joan Hartigan (Australia).

In addition, the following players have been nominated for the championships by Great Britain:—

Men's Singles—Perry, Austin, G. P. Hughes, H. G. N. Lee.

Women's Singles—Miss Round, Miss Stammers, Miss Scriven, Mrs. M. R. King.

Men's Doubles—I. G. Collins and F. H. D. Wilde; G. P. Hughes and C. R. D. Tuckey.

Women's Doubles—Miss E. Dearman and Miss N. M. Lyle; Miss F. James and Miss Stammers.

Mixed Doubles—Perry and Miss Round; Austin and Miss A. M. Yorke.

Perry, Menzel, Crawford and Wood are in one half, and Austin, Boussus, Allison and von Cramm in the other. There is, therefore, no possibility of another Perry-Crawford final, as last year. The championships do not always turn out as the "Seeding" Committee anticipate; for there are many good players, of course, who cannot be ignored when chances are summed up.

This year the "seeded" players are undoubtedly the sixteen best singles exponents entered for the championships, which will begin on Monday, June 24.

There are no byes in the men's singles, but the old Bagnall-Wylde system of grouping byes at the top and bottom of the draw has been re-introduced for the women's singles, and among those who will not be called upon to play until the second round are Miss Round, Miss Joan Hartigan, Miss Anita Lizana, Miss Stammers and Mrs. Sperling.

Miss Round and Mrs. Moody, should they win their earlier matches, will come into conflict before the final. In Miss Round's half are Miss Hartigan, Mrs. Moody and Mrs. Mathieu; in the lower half are Miss Scriven, Miss Jacobs, Miss Stammers and Mrs. Sperling. The most fortunate player in the women's singles is Miss Burgess Smith. She has been drawn against Miss L. Payot, the Swiss champion, and should have played her in the second round, having got a bye. Miss Payot, however, will be unable to take part in the championships owing to illness, and, therefore, Miss Burgess Smith goes into the third round without playing. The draw is:—

THE AMERICAN MARKETS

STOCKS CLOSE WEAK

FROM REUTER'S CORRESPONDENT.

NEW YORK, Wednesday.

Decided bearish activity in the Mining group—reserved for the late trading—was the chief feature of to-day's operations on the Stock Exchange. This selling had a markedly unsettling effect on the rest of the list, with the result that quotations generally lost fractions to 3 dollars. Sales were comparatively high at 1,630,000 shares. The market closed weak. Declines of anything to 3 points were recorded by the Utility, Industrial, Farm Implement, Chemical and Tobacco groups, together with U.S. Smelting.

Call money remained at ½ per cent., and the outside rate was unchanged at ½ per cent. Prime paper was quoted at ¾ to 1 per cent. Open market discount rates were unaltered at ⅜ per cent. bid and ½ per cent. asked for ninety-day Bank bills, and ¾ per cent. bid and ⅞ per cent. asked for six months' bills.

Sterling exchange opened ¼ higher at 4.94, but dropped to 4.93¾ during the morning. The rate remained at this level in the afternoon, but finally closed ¼ higher compared with the previous close at 4.93¾.

Silver was ¼ down at 72c.
